Army Engineer Tells Why Low Dam Not Approved

SAYS COUNTY ENGINEERS "STOOD PAT"

Refused to Approve Lower Dam and Government Had No Alternative

THE United States Army board of engineers refused to approve lowering the Prado dam from 92 feet to 70 feet because the board of consulting engineers or Orange county themselves stood pat in approving their own original plan for a 92-foot dam and the army engineers, having already approved the county's water plan, there was no cause for controversy.

This fact came to light today in answers to four questions asked by Gen. T. H. Jackson, head of the board of United States Army engineers in San Francisco, by Dell Davenport of the United Press association, at the request of the Santa Ana Register.

General Jackson was quoted by Davenport as saying that "a 70-foot dam would barely take care of flood waters the equal of the highest on record, that of 1916, and in no way anticipates the possibility of a greater flood at some future date."

The report said that by lowering the dam it would be possible to save as much as two and a half million dollars, but the "70-foot dam would be inadequate and the Orange county engineers are firmly opposed to changing their plans thus." Supervisor W. C. Jerome today said that of this two and a half million dollars

SUPERVISORS AGREE TO SLASH TAX RATE

CRUSADING PUBLISHER SHOT DOWN

Minneapolis Editor Dies at Hands of Assassin as He Predicted

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—Walter Liggett, crusading Minneapolis publisher slain last night feared he would die at the hands of an assassin and had cached evidence to support charges against his political foes, it was revealed today.

Liggett told friends less than two months ago he feared a moral attack and had secreted "in the east" a complete file of evidence in connection with the bitter campaigns he waged against enemies of his Midwest American.

In this supported file and in Liggett's personal records authorities believed lay the only solution to the identity of the two gunmen who shot Liggett last night before his comely wife and 8-year-old daughter.

Investigation resulted in arrest of two men for questioning. One of them, Meyer Schulberg, a liquor dealer, was released a few hours later. The other, Isador Blumfeld, alias "Kid Cann," was held without charge but police believed he had established an ironclad alibi.

Schulberg said he had known

Agreement Hinges On Bond Vote

Pledge Given to Delegation from Citizen's Water Committee Today

THE COUNTY Supervisors today agreed to sign a formal statement pledging a reduction of 10 cents in the county tax rate next year if the $6,620,000 flood bonds are voted December 19.

The pledge was given to a delegation representing the Citizen's Water Committee and other organizations of the county, who asked definite assurance that the flood program, if carried out, would relieve the tax burden in other quarters.

The formal statement was expected to be signed by the supervisors.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING ON COAST HEAVY

Dun & Bradstreet Declares Holiday Season to Be Most Prosperous

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., financial reporting service, said today the Pacific coast is headed for the most profitable Christmas shopping season since 1929.

In some lines buying may surpass even the peaks of the boom days which preceded the depression, it was said.

The report said jewelry sales over the entire coast were far in advance of any for the last several years and even exceeded 1929 sales. This was regarded as significant because jewelry generally is regarded as a luxury and a heavy trade in this line denotes a greatly augmented buying power. Radio and musical instrument sales also were reported excellent.

Country buying has been better relatively than city buying, Dun and Bradstreet said.

Shopping has been so brisk many dealers have been forced to lay in new stocks to supplement the goods they had estimated they would need for the holiday trade.

Reduced to percentages the shopping appeared to be between 15 and 20 per cent better than in 1934. A similar condition prevails throughout the nation, the service said.

Bremen Convoyed in Bombing Scare

War days were vividly brought to mind in New York harbor when the S. S. Bremen, center of last Summer's swastika riots, steamed to her dock under the protection of heavily armed Coast Guard and police ship convoy. A telephoned tip that Communists planned to blow up the ship caused the unusual precautions to be taken. This view along the Bremen's hull shows one of the convoy ships at right.

Sharp Criticism of Proposal Heard at Meeting of Cabinet Today

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin intimated in the House of Commons today that a hitch had occurred in the Franco-British negotiations to settle the Ethiopian war.

"All morning we have been examining messages regarding the matter," Baldwin said, referring to a protracted emergency session of the cabinet. "Frankly, I am not at all sure that finality has been reached."

"There has been a leakage in France which has made these most difficult and delicate negotiations incomparably more delicate and difficult, but I am informed by those who have studied the original proposals as well as press reports of them, that there are substantial differences."

Excited Speculation

Baldwin's cryptic announcement caused excited speculation in the house, where many members are opposed to the reported terms of the plan as granting too much to Italy.

Baldwin is expected to make a full statement tomorrow and promised Clement R. Attlee, labor leader, that a full debate will be held as soon as possible.

The cabinet was believed to have discussed procedure to be adopted in event both Italy and Ethiopia either accepted or rejected the proposals, or in event one accepted and the other rejected.

There was sharp criticism of the proposal, as unjust to Ethiopia, in yesterday's cabinet meeting when the proposal was accepted, and it was reported that unfavorable reaction in an important section of the press also impressed government circles.

Maurice Peterson, Ethiopian expert of the foreign office, who went to Paris to work out the foundation for the peace proposal, attended the cabinet meeting.

FILIPINO DREAM OF FREEDOM FADING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Filipino dream of independence is fading fast and congress probably will be asked to give permanent effect to the present commonwealth government under the American flag, Roy W. Howard said in a cabled dispatch published today in the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Howard, writing at Manila, reported the Filipinos concerned over their future trade relations and their security.

"Japan's arms, stretching out ever more menacingly and apparently intent on embracing the entire orient, today are casting a dark shadow across the Philippines," the dispatch said.

COAST STEVEDORES UNLOADING CARGOES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Lifting their embargo, Pacific coast longshoremen today unloaded cargoes of six freighters from the Gulf of Mexico strike zone.

San Francisco longshoremen crews went to work on the S. S. Katrina Luckenbach and the Swayne and Hoyt Point Gorda, waterfront employers reported. San Pedro dock workers started moving the cargo on two Luckenbach and two Swayne and Hoyt freighters there. The other Swayne and Hoyt boats are in the harbor, not yet docked, and the S. S. Mathew Luckenbach is enroute to San Francisco with a cargo from the gulf ports.

HAUPTMANN'S ONLY HOPE IS GOVERNOR

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 10.—Federal and state courts began action today to electrocute Bruno Richard Hauptmann approximately 30 days after Christmas. His attorneys indicated they believed only executive clemency could save him.

New reports indicated Gov. Harold G. Hoffman believes Hauptmann innocent of kidnapping and murdering the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and may at least postpone any date set by the courts for his death.

Hauptmann, stoic and expressionless as usual in his cell in the state prison death house, held to hope that "the people of the United States will know me as I am, not as I have been painted."

YOUNG HOEPEL IDENTIFIED AS TRIAL RESUMED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Athletes today appeared to be cast in stellar roles in the trial before district supreme court of Rep. John H. Hoeppel, D., Calif., and his son, Charles J. Hoeppel, charged with conspiring to sell an apartment to West Point.

Star witness for the government is James W. Ives, Baltimore, Olympic lacrosse player and all-Maryland football star.

Ives testified he was solicited to buy a nomination to West Point by young Hoeppel who approached him, he testified, under the name of Charles Alexander.

Ives concluded his testimony by pointing out in the courtroom a spectator whom he testified had approached him in connection with the case recently.

The spectator identified himself as George Trinaastich, who was subpoenaed to appear today. Trinaastich was also identified as an athlete. A football player of that name played for George Washington university this year.

COL. LINDBERGH AND WIFE KEEP SILENCE

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 10.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife regret renewed publicity about the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann because they are convinced he killed their infant son, a person close to the family said today.

Lindbergh and his wife refused to comment on national court action that almost ended Hauptmann's hope for life yesterday but a person close to the household said they were not surprised.

The Lindberghs are living in close seclusion at "Next Door Hill," estate of Mrs. Lindbergh's parents.

He retired from active business almost two years ago and has been in ill health for several months.

In addition to his son at Laguna Beach he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Kate I. Cravath; two other sons, H. A. Cravath of Bakersfield and Bert S. F. D. R. RETURNS TO WHITE HOUSE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Roosevelt returned today from a whirlwind one-day speech-making tour of the midwest to find the capital reacting along traditional partisan lines to his strongly worded defense of New Deal farm and recovery policies.

The president's special train pulled into the union station at 10:30 a. m.

Mr. Roosevelt, obviously good humored over the hearty reception given his address to agriculturists at the American Farm Bureau Federation convention at Chicago and his appearance at Notre Dame university at South Bend, Ind., moved immediately to the White House.

At the White House a multitude of tasks awaited him, the principal being the completion of the budget for the 1937 fiscal year and the preparation of his recommendations to congress.

Salvation Army Opens Annual Drive

YOU CAN PREVENT THIS

BY KENNETH ADAMS

SO THAT there need be no aching hearts or hungry mouths in Santa Ana at Christmas time, The Register and Salvation Army today launched their annual drive to provide funds for purchase of Christmas baskets for deserving needy families and to bring happiness to unfortunate children by assuring them that they will not be forgotten when Christmas comes.

The idea is humanitarian and the plan is simple. Generous citizens of the community are asked to contribute whatever they can in the way of money, food or toys in good condition, sending the contributions to The Register or to the Salvation Army headquarters. In this way it is expected to furnish Christmas baskets to 400 families and to stage a big Christmas tree celebration for 500 children.

Already the Salvation Army has 263 applications for the Christmas baskets, according to Capt. C. W. Gallipio, and more pleas for help are coming in each day. It is certain that they will not be disappointed for in past years Santa Anans have taken heed of the plight of their fellow townspeople and have contributed generously to keep the pot boiling.

Money, food and toys collected will be placed in one central point, from which the distributions will be made the day before Christmas. This year $500 in cash is needed to what is received in the kettles the Salvation Army has stationed on downtown streets. Last year The Register was able to collect more generous than last year. The effort is started later this year and the contributions must come in faster in order to meet the requirements.

What great joy the 500 poor children who gather around the big Register - Salvation Army Christmas tree on December 23 will find in their gifts from Santa Claus, secured through the contributions citizens here will make. The lighted Christmas tree will bring more joy to the hearts of these children than anything else could and it is an undertaking which is not only designed to give pleasure to the children but also to those who will know that they had a part in it, and so can rejoice with the children. Santa Claus will be there to distribute the gifts and bags full of candy, nuts and fruit to the expectant boys and girls.

The Register is happy today to start out this fund with a contribution of $25. Two other unsolicited donations came in today, both for $19 each. One was from Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Leyden, of Duheny Park, who have not missed contributing for 10 years, and the other was from R. D. Stinson.

Contributions on the opening day of the drive are:

Register ..... $25
Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Leyden ..... 19
R. D. Stinson ..... 19
Total ..... $45

Send in your contribution today! Let's join forces to make this the outstanding event of the year!

FLOOD WATERS IN HOUSTON RECEDING

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 10.—Flood waters receded slowly from Houston streets today, leaving damage expected to exceed $2,500,000.

Fourteen persons were listed on police reports as missing and the final accounting was expected to show near a score of fatalities.

Buffalo Bayou was shrinking into its normal channel after raging out of bank since week end rains averaging 10 inches over the area it drains.

The Red Cross and other relief agencies were caring for hundreds of refugees whose homes were flooded. The crest of the flood passed early yesterday, after which a steady drop in the water level was noted.

The bodies of four Negro children were found today. Three had caught in the debris backed up by a bridge in the heart of the city. None was identified.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR WATER PROJECT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Presidential approval of re-allocation of $14,000,000 work-relief money to start work on California's central valley irrigation project was announced today by Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes.

The reallocation, following revision of $14,000,000 of the $15,000,000 originally allotted for the development, will allow the bureau of reclamation to proceed with construction of the project on a more feasible plan than that originally proposed, according to Dr. Elwood Mead, reclamation commissioner.

He said the bureau "has completed plans and specifications for the initial contracts and this will be called almost immediately."

agreement was rivaled by hope that the new proposal might end the European crisis since the World War.

While the cabinet was in session, it was explained that British continues to maintain the attitude that any settlement must be accepted freely by Italy, Ethiopia and the League and there can be no question of any undue pressure on Ethiopia.

It further was explained that the Anglo-French proposals, including the procedure for dealing with them, still were subject to consultation among the British ministers, which accounted for the emergency summoning of the cabinet.

The views of the government will be communicated to France immediately and the proposals will then be conveyed officially to Italy and Ethiopia. The cabinet adjourned at 1:20 p. m.

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press)

ROME, Dec. 10.—Italians believed today that Premier Benito Mussolini had decided to accept a French-British proposal as a basis of discussion for settlement of the Ethiopian crisis.

A foreign office spokesman indicated the proposal probably would be accepted as a basis "if it offered an honest minimum for Italy's necessities, including room for expansion and a supply of raw materials." He said, however, that Mussolini would make no snap decision.

It was thought, however, that if he did accept the offer for discussion, he would make the reservation that, during the discussion, talk of new league of nations penalties against Italy, particularly, an oil embargo, should be held in reserve.

The League's "general staff" meets Thursday to choose a date for the oil embargo, and an accompanying embargo on coal, iron and steel.

Both the chamber of deputies and senate were in session today.

The French-British proposal had not been made formally. It is known to Mussolini. It was not submitted to him in formal shape immediately after its approval by Premier Pierre Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, at Paris Sunday night because the approval of the British cabinet was necessary.

It was indicated that if the proposal offered a basis of discussion, Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's chief delegate to the League, would go to Geneva for Thursday's meeting.

Italian plans for penetration of Ethiopia continue. One under discussion is for a canal from the region of Assab, Eritrea, to the Danakil country of Ethiopia, as a means of opening up the "hell hole of creation."

MURDER SUSPECT TO FIGHT EXTRADITION

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Beauford Montgomery, 32, held as a Shawnee, Okla., murder suspect, today announced he would fight extradition.

Shawnee authorities said he was wanted in connection with the killing of Pearl Richards, a farmer, February 2, 1934. Montgomery claimed he had been tried and acquitted of murder charges.

PHILIPPINE CLIPPER ARRIVES IN HAWAII

The plane, carrying 15,000 pieces of mail, a crew of nine men and two radio broadcasting company employees, made the 1400-mile flight in 20 hours, seven minutes, almost an hour faster than the China Clipper which made the inaugural flight over the California to Manila route.

merely a reaffirmation of the known position of his government—left an impression the conference will fail to reconcile Japan's claims with those of other naval powers, notably the United States.

Belief grew stronger that any agreement reached at these deliberations will deal with minor naval problems.

It was expected that Viscount Matsuoka of Eresham, who will preside over tomorrow's meeting, will, after preliminary remarks, request Admiral Nagano to expound Japan's attitude further.

FORMER TAMMANY WHIP'S SON SHOT

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(UP)—George Olivney Jr., son of the former dictator of Tammany Hall, today was found shot twice through the head. He was taken to General hospital where his condition was said to be critical.

The youth was found unconscious at a deserted boathouse at about 2:45 a. m. Police Chief James Coughlin told the United Press that "as far as my investigation has gone, it is unquestionably an attempt at suicide."

Olivney left notes, one "tipping off" a Syracuse newspaper correspondent on a "story." Patrolman Walter Duprey, investigating the shooting, said Olivney was at a party last night. Bruce Clark, the correspondent, also was at Saranac Lake.

ELEVEN KILLED AS AIR LINER CRASHES

TATSFIELD, Kent, England, Dec. 10.—(UP)—A Belgian air liner crashed in a high wind and rain near here today, and all seven passengers and the crew of four were reported killed.

The plane belonged to the Belgian Sabena Air line.

The crew was composed of Belgians. The nationalities of the passengers were not known.

The plane was a three-motored Savoia, en route from Brussels to Croydon airport, outside London.

The passengers included one Englishman, Sir John Carden. It was not known whether any Americans were aboard.

counsel for the Hoepels, sought to break down Ives' story today. However, the 22-year-old blonde athlete clung to his testimony that young Hoepel approached him in May, 1934, offering to deliver for the appointment.

Ives said he gave the congressman's son a note for $1000 for the nomination but later reconsidered and sought to cancel the agreement.

Ives said he asked the congressman to give him an appointment "legally," but Hoepel told him, "No, you don't wish to carry out the agreement, and you can't have the appointment."

Ansell began cross examination of Ives today, hammering at the idea that the congressman made the appointment only at the request of Ives ranking army officers who were anxious to send the youth to West Point because of his athletic ability.

ARMY ENGINEER EXPLAINS WHY ACTION TAKEN

the county would save one-third and the government two-thirds.

Four Questions

Here are the questions propounded to General Jackson by the United Press for The Register:

"Q—Do I understand that you would say that if this dam in the Upper Santa Ana were lowered from 90 feet to 70 feet that the federal money would not be available?"

"Q—Is it a policy of the government to not permit communities to reduce the size of their enterprises after they have been once examined?"

"Q—Have you examined the plans and specifications and the data on the engineering project submitted by the engineers on the Santa Ana-Prado dam, known as the 'modification' or the 'Browning-Finkle' plan?"

"Q—If this dam were correct from an engineering point of view, and would protect the Santa Ana Valley from a flood 20 per cent greater than the 1916 flood and because of the lower costs, the citizens preferred this dam to the other, is there any reason why the federal government would not treat them financially in it in the same manner they would in the larger enterprise?"

The complete report by the United Press man, Davenport, follows:

"According to General T. H. Jackson, head of the Board of United States Army Engineers, the specific answer to the question: 'why they refused to approve lowering Prado dam from 92 feet to 70 feet' is:

"Because the board of consulting engineers of Orange county themselves stood pat in approving their own original plan for a 92-foot dam, and the army engineers, having already approved, there was no cause whatsoever for controversy."

"By way of clarifying the situation as to why all the engineers connected with the project are in absolute agreement, General Jackson added: that a 70-foot dam, BARELY would take care of flood waters the equal of the highest on record, that of 1916, and in no way anticipates the possibility of a greater flood at some future date."

"As for the other four questions propounded, and herewith attached, the general declined to answer them on the grounds that they covered points all highly controversial and the army engineers had no interest in the matter as a controversy. He did, however, explain sympathetically the problem confronting the advocates of the Prado dam enterprise by pointing out that leaders in Orange county, having lost a bond election in recent weeks and now facing another test at the polls on the same issue, naturally felt by reducing the amount of money the taxpayers would have to raise for their share of the costs, they would have a better chance of getting the bond approved in order to make the federal funds available. By lowering the dam, he said, it would be possible to save as much as two and one-half million dollars, but the 70-foot dam would be inadequate, and the Orange county engineers are firmly opposed to changing their plans thus."

"One must always pass on these engineering plans in accordance to one's lights in engineering," said General Jackson. "We made very few changes in the plans submitted by the consulting engineers of Orange county and considered them as adequate as it was possible to make them at this time. However, I cannot recall a single engineering project in the United States that was fully adequate in its beginning."

RICHFIELD ASSETS ARE SET BY COURT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Assets of Richfield Oil company, of California and its subsidiary, Pan-American Petroleum company, were appraised today at $30,108,572 for the basis of a "fair judicial sale" or $48,353,452 if reorganized and financed.

The appraisals were ordered by Federal Judge William P. James preparatory to offering the properties for sale January 31. Federal Receiver William C. McDuffie has urged an early sale, claiming Richfield is handicapped by lack of producing properties.

In a bid, since withdrawn, Standard Oil company, offered $28,500,000 for both Richfield of California and Richfield of New York. The New York company since has been sold to Sinclair interests.

BOARD SEEKS STATE OFFICE BUILDING HERE

The state was urged, in a resolution passed by the county supervisors today, to proceed with construction of a state building in Santa Ana, to house the California Highway Patrol, and the motor-vehicle registration department.

Action of the board was taken at the request of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, conveyed through Secretary Howard Wood, and the resolution was addressed to Ray Ingles, head of the motor-vehicle department.

Ingles was said to have recently abandoned, temporarily, plans to proceed with the state building in Orange county, but it is believed, according to the chamber of commerce, that a formal request from the board of supervisors will result in immediate revival of the plan.

Following the business session games will be played and refreshments served.

When Patrol Officers Harry Prichard and William Heard went to First and Lyon streets last night at 9:43 o'clock to investigate an accident reported by a resident of the neighborhood, they were unable to locate either wrecked cars or injured persons, they said.

Booked by United States Deputy Marshal Lavalle of Los Angeles, the men were Gaspar Cascioppo, 28, a cook from Escondido, who got six months; Joseph Titenman, 24-year-old Los Angeles man, who said he was born in Russia, in for a 30-day term, and Natalie Valli, 43, Italian grocer, from Los Angeles, whose sentence is six months.

PLAN SPEEDY TRIAL FOR HAMMER SLAYER

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Authorities today planned a quick trial for Frances Mabel Willys, 38-year-old housewife who assertedly killed Dr. Walter F. Hammond, her common-law husband, with a claw hammer.

The matronly woman will be given a sanity test by court alienists, authorities said.

Mrs. Willys said she modeled the slaying of her dentist-lover after the Clara Phillips "hammer murder" of a decade ago.

High officials and other persons against whom Liggett directed his charges made no comment upon his death.

Liggett approximately two months. He said Liggett had approached him with a request for $1500 to finance Liggett's recent trial in St. Paul on statutory charges. In return for the money, Schuberg said, the Midwest American was to cease its attacks against him.

Cann told police he was in a downtown barbershop when Liggett was slain. Police said the statement appeared to be sound.

Both Schuberg and Cann were subjected to attacks in the last edition of Liggett's Midwest American. Cann especially was the object of a vitriolic attack. He was accused of underworld activity under "protection" of the county attorney's office and of collusion with vice interests.

Many Enemies

Examining the list of persons Liggett antagonized through his publications, police found a huge array ranging from several in high offices to underworld activity.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson was one of Liggett's most frequent subjects for scathing editorials. In his December 6 publication Liggett listed for the 20th consecutive week a list of 12 purported reasons why Gov. Olson should be impeached. He called upon the legislature, entering a special session, either to investigate the charges or to cite him for criminal libel and give him an opportunity to prove them in open court. Liggett claimed much of his evidence was in documentary form.

Olson, with whom Liggett once was allied, never has recognized the charges. He has taken the position that they were too absurd to dignify by commenting upon them.

Five shots struck Liggett. The assassin, riding in an automobile which met Liggett's as he approached the rear of his home, was believed to have fired almost point-blank into Liggett's back. He died instantly.

Mrs. Liggett, constant companion of her husband both socially and in his campaigns, told police she recognized the man who fired

COUNTY SELLS INTEREST IN HOSPITAL SITE

Orange county today sold to Riverside county its 57-per cent interest in the tri-county tuberculosis sanitarium site, on a bid of $869.60.

The figure represents cash paid above an indebtedness of $1400 against Orange county, which indebtedness Riverside county assumes. The sale was made at public auction from the courthouse steps by Clerk J. M. Backs, in the presence of supervisors, and Supervisor E. C. Talbot, of Riverside county, who made the bid and presented payment. Talbot, a resident of Ferris, is from Riverside county's fifth district.

The transaction closed out Orange county's connection with an ill-starred venture of about 10 years ago, when the site near Banning, Riverside county, was purchased jointly with that county and Imperial county. Plans to proceed with a sanitarium of 100-bed capacity were never carried out. Recently Riverside county made a "buy or sell" offer to the other two counties, both of which decided to sell. Imperial county sold its 12-per cent interest for cancellation of its debt and $217 in cash.

Talbot said Riverside county will hold the property until a suitable offer for it is made. He said he would oppose selling at the small percentage of the original purchase price which the present transaction represents.

GEO. W. PEPPER LEADS ATTACK ON NEW DEAL

Hoosac Mills case on which the court will pass.

Pepper excoriated claims regarding the "voluntary quality" of production control in the law as evidenced in polls on AAA crop control plans, saying: "I daresay I could get a better result if I polled the college students on the question of more liberal allowances from fathers."

Although New Deal lawyers whispered "unfair" to one another, Pepper charged the AAA went far beyond the nationalistic policies of Alexander Hamilton under the "general welfare" clause of the constitution.

"It is a result of which Hamilton never dreamed," Pepper pleaded.

SUPERVISORS AGREE TO CUT RATE ON TAXES

Members of the board reiterated their previous statement that among the things the flood project would accomplish, including the creation of employment, would lighten the tax load elsewhere in the county budget.

Members of the delegation calling upon the supervisors today, expressed the opinion that the pledge for a reduction of ten cents in the tax rate would greatly strengthen the prospects of the bond issue for approval at the polls. They expressed complete satisfaction with the board's promise.

Those conferring with the supervisors today were W. H. Spurgeon, of Santa Ana, chairman of the Citizens Water committee; George E. Kellogg, of Yorba Linda, member of the water committee and president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county; William Gallene, of Huntington Beach, representing the Huntington Beach chamber of commerce, which initiated the action resulting in today's agreement; Roy White, manager of the campaign for the bonds at Huntington Beach; George Griffith, of Anaheim; H. A. Lake, of Garden Grove; and Stanley Chapman, of Fullerton.

CHILDREN TO GET CANDY AT YULE CARNIVAL

Carnival skaters doing amazing stunts at lightning speed, gay music, a real live Santa Claus distributing North Pole candy to the children, and a puppet show—like anything ever seen here before—are included in Shell's Christmas Carnival which will visit Santa Ana tomorrow.

Full details of the big amusement event, an annual attraction which everybody looks forward to with great interest, were received here today by N. H. Huff, local manager for Shell Oil company, who says the entertainment will be the most original the company has ever staged, something to be enjoyed by grown-ups as well as youngsters.

The big red and gold circus van carrying the troupe of performers and special equipment for the puppet show will roll into town tomorrow afternoon and Shell's Christmas Carnival will give free performances at Seventeenth and Main streets at 4:15 p. m. and at First and Bush streets at 5 p. m.

Exhibition skating opens each performance of Shell's Christmas Carnival and while the skaters are doing their stunts, the side of the van is opened up to disclose a stage for the puppet show which is entitled "Santa Claus Leaves for Santa Ana. The scene is laid at the North Pole where Santa's toy-laden motor sled is being made ready for his yearly trip to the fireplaces of the world.

Operated by strings, the puppet characters play their little comedy, aided by walruses, polar bears, penguins and other amusing animals. At the conclusion, the puppets invite all the children to come up and receive candy from Santa Claus himself, in person. Each piece of candy is a miniature North Pole, shaped and colored like the pole seen in the play. Shell has provided 20 tons of candy—400,000 pieces!—and cars was taken to choose only the most beautiful kind which mothers would approve.

The Register has been asked by Shell to extend a cordial invitation to everybody to attend one of the puppet performances and enjoy all the features of Shell's unique Christmas Carnival.

FORMER EDITOR IS HONORED AT DINNER EVENT

By Kenneth Adams
In an evening made gay with sparkling wit, but nevertheless fulfilling its purpose to honor J. F. Burke, former publisher of The Register for his services to the community, more than 200 persons filled the large banquet room at James cafe to capacity last night at a recognition banquet for the newspaperman.

Friendly jibes at Burke for his fighting tactics were voiced by many speakers, who in more serious vein lauded the forceful leadership, Christian idealism, liberalism, tolerance, patriotism and humanitarianism of the man Burke.

Climaxing the events of the evening, the large crowd rose to its feet to pay tribute to Burke, who spoke briefly at the conclusion of the banquet. In the face of such an ovation, Burke said, he felt humble and promised that he would make every effort to live up to the kind things said about him.

B. Z. McKinney, attorney, acted as master of ceremonies, introducing speakers and guests at the head table, the latter group including Mr. and Mrs. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal K. King, W. W. Hay, James Irvine, O. H. Barr and Mrs. J. S. Smart.

Pastors On Program
The meeting opened with invocation by the Rev. Harry Evans Owens, minister of the First Baptist church. The first speaker on the program was the Rev. Graham Hunter, of the Fullerton First Presbyterian church, who praised the social, reform and moral attitude of Burke as editor of The Register. Because of the fine idealism of Burke, he said, The Register was more widely read in the northern end of the county than before.

McKinney read a telegram from Dr. Elmer Bell, congratulating Burke on the honors bestowed on him last evening, declaring that leadership is bound to create a following.

Speaking on Burke as an advocate of peace, Sam Hurwitz, Santa Ana business man, expressed appreciation of Burke's editorial attitude denouncing war and oppression of people of any race or creed. "True patriotism," he said, "has been Burke's contribution to peace."

Discussing the activities of Burke in the church, R. C. Smedley, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and of the Ministerial Union, spoke of Burke's crusading spirit, saying that he spoke many times when it might, at least, have been pleasant to keep quiet.

Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, Orange, director of temperance instruction for the National W. C. T. U., told of Burke's stand against liquor since he was a boy of 14.

"We are proud of his Christian citizenship and of his work with the Anti-Saloon League," she said.

Irvine Speaks
An intimate and interesting account of how friendship between Burke and himself grew out of a dispute over whether or not Costa Mesa should have been annexed to Santa Ana was given by James Irvine, county rancher. Irvine said he has found Burke to be broad-minded, absolutely sincere and a square fighter. "I am glad and proud of him as my friend," he said in conclusion. Irvine's story was highlighted with a humorous account of how "the pinfeathers flew" at their first meeting.

Burke earned the title of a good citizen in Santa Ana, O. H. Barr declared in a talk in which good humor prevailed. He said he was gratified that J. P. Baumgartner, Terry Stephenson and now Burke—three retired editors, have elected to stay in Santa Ana.

W. W. Hay, chairman of the SERRA committee and foreman of the grand jury, expressed appreciation on behalf of the unemancipated groups of the county for the aid Burke gave in the relief program in the county, often beset with difficulties. He also thanked Burke for helping two county school districts secure a federal grant of $250,000 for rebuilding schools.

One of the wittiest talks of the evening was given by W. Kee Maxwell, publisher of the Fullerton Tribune, who spoke on Burke as a newspaperman. Borrowing a line from Mark Antony, Maxwell said, "I come here to bury Caesar, not to praise him." Before he praised Burke, he said, he wanted to find out if he is really a corpse or whether he is playing "possum." There were no better fights than those he and Burke engaged in, he said, and now his name has been suggested for Public Enemy No. 1. Speaking in a serious vein, he said Burke always fought fairly, and that he had the attributes of a newspaperman—digging out facts, versatile and tolerant.

Humanitarian Side
The humanitarian side of Burke was the subject of a talk by Capt. C. W. Gallipio, of the Salvation Army, who said the former publisher did the common people a lot of good and that they know it. He thanked Burke for his aid on many humanitarian problems. The old-fashioned honesty of Burke was lauded by Ole Hanson, founder of San Clemente, who said we need to get back to this type of honesty in times when great public trusts are being betrayed. He said Phil Stanton had told him of what a fine paper The Register is, in spite of the fact that he did not agree with the publisher's views. He saluted Burke as a "fearless, honest American citizen."

Responding to those who spoke, Burke said he can catch bricksbats easier than bouquets and that he felt rather like the dog who had a tin can tied to his tail so long that every time he saw a tin can he backed up to it. He was glad his wife was there so she could hear about what kind of a man he was, he said.

Speaking seriously, he said that he bears no ill will against any human being and that there is no one living that he would not aid if he could. He expressed a tremendous interest in anything that affects humanity, and declared that his objective will be to be worthy of the kind things said about him. He said he does not know what the future holds for him, "I shall never forget this occasion," he said. "It is a great kindness and I shall never forget it."

ACCOUNTANT IS EMPLOYED BY FARM GROUP

The recently organized Orange County Farm Accounting Association is now actively operating, having secured sufficient farm business contracts to employ the first accountant, it was announced today by Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg.

Walter Goetz, of Orange, for many years an expert accountant, has been selected by the board of directors to take charge of the accounting work, according to Ed M. Hall, Santa Ana, president of the cooperative accounting association. Hall anticipates that the association membership will grow rapidly, because of the growing need for farm accounting and reliable records.

In a recent report to the directors of the Association, Wahlberg disclosed that the average investment per farm in Orange county was $56,256, according to the last available farm census figures. There are 3469 orchards, 236 truck farms, 344 specialty crop farms, 118 dairy farms, 11 stock farms, 48 per cent of livestock receipts.

324 poultry farms and 31 general farms. Orange county has over 2000 farms with an average capital investment of over $56,000 per farm and gross incomes of $4000 or more. On this basis the directors of the Orange County Farm Accounting Association feel that the new service will find a fertile field for farm accounting. Farmers whose business is not large enough to employ a full time accountant and do not want to do their own bookkeeping can have an adequate accounting system on a cooperative cost basis.

The directors of the association besides Hall are A. D. Smiley, Garden Grove; A. H. Allen, Tustin; H. Clay Kellogg, Garden Grove; Raymond Terry, Anaheim; and Frank Latham, Santa Ana.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— News Behind the News —

BY PAUL MALLON

(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon)

STONE CASTERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Brokers are handing around among themselves for laughter New York curb market listing Bulletin No. 174. It is a prize antique of the pre-depression era.

The current general significance lies in the mention therein of the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt as a director of the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising corporation. The bulletin is an application for listing the stock of that corporation. It is dated August 8, 1928.

Four pages of hopes for profits are claimed on page five of the bulletin by a detailed citation of expected earnings each year for ten years. For instance, the bulletin shows that this year, the company expected to earn $2,017,560 from penny weighing machines, $850,000 from penny gum sales, $608,702 from postage stamp machines, and $15,300,000 from general machine merchandising (candies, gum, etc.).

Any investor could pencil the total up to a grand $15,774,262, which is a lot of pennies and nickels.

FUN

What rolls the hard-hearted brokers on the unattached pennies in the light of the subsequent fate of the corporation. The profits were not to be. Some pennies must have stuck in the machines.

On July 3, 1934, the Southern District Court in New York approved petitions filed by the offering broker, F. J. Lenneman and Company, and the General Vending corporation (an almost wholly owned subsidiary) for relief under section 7B of the Bankruptcy Act. Twenty days later the court entered a decree continuing each corporation in possession of its respective assets. (Moody's Industrial Manual, 1935 edition).

This subject is supposed to have been vaguely mentioned by someone during the last campaign. At that time it developed that Director Roosevelt had about as much to do with it as the average corporate director—just a little more than nothing.

But you cannot keep brokers from having their fun.

CREDIT

The large brick hurled by the Bankers' Advisory Council at the Federal Reserve policy has been noted by all official ears here without notice, not an official head has been raised in acknowledgment. Not an official word spoken.

Unofficially, the highest here seem to have an assured outlook on the credit situation. If they had desired to speak, they would have said something like this:

Federal Reserve policy has been to encourage excess reserves in the belief that this would eventually bring pressure on the frozen capital market and break up the ice. First symptoms of thaw have now been noticed. Probably the FRB had nothing to do with it, but, at any rate, the test of the policy pressure is just now about to be made.

Thus, it is hardly reasonable to expect that the board will reverse itself with vigor.

If the highest further disclosed their minds on this most important issue (it involves inflationary or deflationary pressure from Washington), they would say:

It is true that the FRB open market committee bought government bonds in the open market to offset a deflationary movement which now has ceased. Instead of gold going out, it is now coming in to the country.

Likewise, it is now true that the treasury refinancing program is completed. There is no serious practical reason why the treasury would object to a moderate selling policy.

But, at the same time, the new dealers believe the advisory committee brick was propelled by a desire for better interest than by any other motive power.

The sum total of all these reactions to the advisory council demand, therefore, seems to amount to one simple word: "No."

TEA

The best tea-table story of the budding social season is the one about a Washington society leader and a governmental commission.

It seems that this commission is one of those obscure overworked governmental authorities which meet once a year, or thereabouts. Its August meeting for this year was held here a few weeks ago. The commissioners, including some representatives from a foreign land, were invited by the society lady to tea.

The big day for the commission saw them properly arrayed in striped pants and authoritative stiff collars. They made a very dignified formal appearance in the salon of their official hostess, but were somewhat disconcerted to find her missing. Her secretary explained she had been delayed on business.

Their feet began to ache after half an hour of shifting their weight from one to the other. The absent lady blew in through the door on a wintry blast. Explanations were not necessary, as the lady was attired in horseback riding raiment. The secretary took the rap, as they say in Tammany social circles, explaining that she had neglected to remind her mistress of the engagement.

The lady herself made a gracious apology and said she would join the party as soon as she could dress. She must have been delayed at this, also. The commission, after waiting until their feet were fairly screaming, decided unanimously that they had other engagements.

SAVINGS

President Roosevelt notes on political surprises, especially when the joke is on the other fellow. He tried unsuccessfully to keep reporters from scooping him on his proposed $500,000,000 budget cut and the near-success of his plan to put $500,000 people on WPA work by December 1. He was keeping back those announcements.

Now he has ordered utmost secrecy on his scheme to disconcert the budget balancers by turning back a large slice of the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund next June. But these figures give him away, provided business continues to improve. For the five months ending December 1 about $500,000 a month was spent for recovery and relief, including loans which may be repaid soon. That leaves exactly $380,000,000 a month for the period ending next July 1, and this also includes RFC, FWA and commodity credit advances which may bound back.

It is true that the relief load will be at peak from now on. But Treasury experts note that emergency spenders always overestimate their needs—sometimes by 100 per cent. The Morgenthau figure that almost $50,000,000 monthly will not be spent, or a total saving of $360,000,000 for this fiscal year. Counting repayments, the unexpected sum may reach $800,000,000. That's the surprise which FDR hopes to spring a few months before election.

GRILL

New York learns that Senator Black's lobby committee is nearly ready to begin open hearings. The committee's agents have unearthed a lot of new material in New York, Chicago and San Francisco. This is now being whipped into shape for use in a series of disclosures designed to recapture public attention.

The committee evidently intends to time its disclosures so they will have a maximum effect on the utility fight as it travels toward the Supreme Court. A majority of the committee is strongly favorable to the holding company act.

INFORMED SOURCES LEARN THAT

Howard C. Hopson—boss of Associated Gas & Electric even though he has divested himself of official titles—is in for another grilling as a result of his company's unexpected suit attacking the holding company law.

FAVORED

Utility insiders do not expect any decisive developments in their grapple with the law for many months to come. They prophesy that both sides will gain minor victories in the numerous clashes to be staged in the lower courts. These will presumably give all combatants a chance to do some public floating from time to time—but they won't prove anything.

Utilities which filed suit to enjoin the Securities Exchange Commission from enforcing the act are delighted at the enthusiastic applause they have been getting from stockholders for their action. The head of one big group says he has never before experienced such a large and favorable response from stockholders as his announcement of suit evoked.

STALL

Over a year ago President Mendetta of Cuba promised his people an election before December 15th, 1935. Recently President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton—one of the world's outstanding authorities on elections—went to Cuba to draft detailed plans for the balloting.

But it will be a case of love's labor lost. Mendetta has decided he doesn't want an election right now and is using the activity of the sugar-grinding season as an excuse for postponing it until next spring or summer. He still holds out the hope of an eventual return to democratic processes.

"GREAT"

Big bankers don't usually like to see themselves quoted in print. But the heads of three important New York banks were seriously considering issuing statements over their personal signatures to the effect that it wasn't they who told Mr. Roosevelt the government could safely stand a debt of 70 billion dollars. They were that hot under the collar about it.

But their advisers finally persuaded them to keep quiet. It was pointed out that such denials would give Mr. Roosevelt a gorgeous opportunity to ask who ever said that the great men in question were great bankers.

Pomona Man Gets College Contract On $132,948 Bid

FULLERTON, Dec. 10.—John Strona, of Pomona, low bidder among seven who submitted estimates for construction of the first unit of the Fullerton District Junior college, was awarded the contract when members of the board of trustees met at the office of the superintendent, Dr. Louis E. Plummer.

The bid is accepted on condition that it is also approved by the Los Angeles PWA headquarters. The trustees anticipate an answer from the office within a week, and will be ready to start operations on the new structure within two weeks from that time.

The bid made by Strona was $132,948, about $25,000 less than that made by the highest bidder.

The new structure will be erected on the junior college site just east of the Fullerton Union High school and is the first of a six unit plant planned by the board.

Dr. Warner said that youth is striking a hopeful note in facing problems squarely, and that in this is providing for "the unfolding of a technique of God and a religion that must build a new conscience."

CHALLENGE OF YOUTH CITED BY MINISTER

FULLERTON, Dec. 10.—"Out of science youth is building a new conscience, and is challenging the church to make of religion what it should be, a science of living, since whatever touches human life is essentially part of life and eternity."

Dr. George A. Warner declared last night when speaking before the Fullerton Union High school Parent-Teacher association on "Youth Challenges the Church."

The theme was in keeping with the general theme of the year, "The Challenge of Youth." Mrs. Harold Covey, program, introduced the speaker. Mrs. C. R. Vandenburg presided.

Dr. Warner said that youth is striking a hopeful note in facing problems squarely, and that in this is providing for "the unfolding of a technique of God and a religion that must build a new conscience."

"At one time, war was considered within the range of conscience, is outlawing war," he said.

"Youth is seeing that religion must not only work toward individual salvation, and a change of the individual, but must prepare a soil where the individual may grow. Youth understands that legality is substituted for morality, and on these and many other issues is asking religious leaders to guide."

Raymond Starbuck led in the salute to the flag. The Orange County P.-T. A. Mothers' chorus provided the music. Miss Ruth Tilton with Miss Anita Shephardson accompanying led in singing Christmas carols.

C. A. Marcy announced that open house was being held in jewelry, china painting and metal work and shop class rooms, and invited the groups to attend.

Mrs. Covey announced J. Shailer Arnold will direct a panel discussion of "Youth Challenges the Home" at the January 10 meeting.

A., with Katherine Peck, of Fullerton, Frances Brenner of Brea, and Wyneth Schell, of Valencia, High school Girl Reserve groups, attended a meeting of presidents and secretaries at Long Beach Saturday, when plans were formulated for the Southern California mid-winter conference.

ORIENT WILL BE DISCUSSED BY CAMPBELL

What promises to be one of the most interesting addresses on the evening high school program will be given December 19, at Willard Junior High school. On that evening Dr. William G. Campbell, associate professor of education at the University of Southern California, will give as his subject a talk on "American-Oriental Relationships."

Dr. Campbell has traveled extensively and conducted tours in recent years in the Orient.

During the summer of 1934, he was a faculty representative to the American-Japanese conference on world affairs. As a guest of the Japan Student union and the Japanese government he gained entrance to many places not ordinarily open to a tourist. Through the medium of contacts thus established he was able to go again during the summer of 1935 and make an

Farmers To Hear Water Bond Talks

All farmers opposed to the water bond issue are urged to meet Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Garden Grove grammar school to hear speakers pro and con and to join a round table discussion of issues involved, Charles Havens, rancher, said today. Friday will be devoted to discussion of a "possible supervisory recall," he said.

Two speakers to represent those who wish the bonds voted are invited to attend and present their views, Havens said. Among the speakers for Thursday, announced by Havens, who will oppose the bonds, are Frank Burke, Roy Browning and George Bates of Santa Ana, and Clay Kellogg of Garden Grove. The last two will discuss engineering phases of the proposed project. N. E. West, supervisor, has been given a special invitation to attend.

Thursday night's meeting will be devoted to discussion of the bond issue itself, Havens declared, while Friday "will be set aside for discussion of a possible recall of some of the supervisors."

even more extensive tour of the various countries of the Orient.

While in Tokyo, during 1934, he was granted the privilege to speak over a radio hook-up which included both of the national systems in Japan. So far as known there has at no time been a hook-up with a larger number of stations in that country.

This talk on the Orient will be found interesting and particularly pertinent due to present Oriental conditions, school authorities say.

Just Like Old Troupers, Quins Make Movie Debut

"Seems to be a lot going on around here today, but are we excited? Not a bit," was the attitude of the Dionne quintuplets as they made their debut before the movie camera in their Callander, Ont., home. The most poised individuals in the nursery, they went right ahead with their routine, as shown here, playing up in great style to the Dr. Dafos of the film. Jean Herscholt, who is making friends with them in this scene. And Nurse Dorothy Peterson seems to be in solid already, as she carefully holds her precious burden. "Best baby actresses I ever saw," was the director's verdict.

ENGINEER ASKS BOND VOTERS TO WEIGH VALUES

Asking voters to consider whether or not the value of the proposed water conservation and flood control program are commensurate with the costs, a signed statement by A. Kempley, member of the supervisors' consulting board of engineers was made public today by George Kellogg, member of the Citizens' Water committee.

The letter, addressed to "Voters of Orange County," follows in full: "Concerning the bond election which is to be held on December 15, 1935, or more particularly the proposed county-wide plan of flood control and water conservation, it is believed that there are certain facts and points of view that are of interest and may be of value to the citizens of Orange County.

"In the first place this particular bond issue, and the grant of Federal funds in the amount of $6,574,000 contingent upon the citizens' approval of the bond issue, are concerned with and have reference to but one plan of flood control and conservation.

Plan Approved

"This plan is county-wide in its character and extent and has been approved as to its worthiness by three Federal agencies, to-wit: The U. S. Army Engineer Corps, the engineering staff of the PWA and the engineering staff of the WPA.

"Therefore, and in the second place, it becomes the duty of each voter in Orange County to inform himself and to decide for himself whether or not the benefits which will accrue from the carrying out of this specific plan will have value commensurate with the cost thereof.

"May it not be a fact that in the final analysis the question of whether or not this project should be carried out will be decided upon a basis quite comparable to that which prompts the purchase of life, accident, fire, or other usual and firmly established forms of insurance? Is it not also true that the purchase of insurance involves not only the value of the benefits that may accrue therefrom, but also and perhaps more important, the cost may result from the failure to purchase insurance?

"A fundamental difference in purpose, however, will be quite obvious.

Contrast Cited

"Life insurance does not protect the insured himself against his own death; accident insurance does not protect him against accidents which may happen to him, nor does fire insurance actually protect a building from destruction by fire.

"These forms of insurance are compensatory in character. The thing insured against, because it may happen, must happen in order that the compensation provided for in the policy may be realized. This situation, universally recognized, does not detract from the value of such insurance but has reference rather to its primary purpose, namely, that of providing for compensation to either the insured or his beneficiaries.

"In contradistinction to the primary purpose of these and other well established, usual, and ordinary types of insurance, the carrying out of the plan of flood control as proposed, does not have for its primary purpose the providing of compensation for the inevitable loss of life and the destruction of property that will result from the certain recurrence of floods if no provision is made for their control.

"On the contrary, the carrying out of this plan does have for its primary purpose the control of these inevitable floods to the end that there shall be neither loss of life nor destruction of property. In other words, the plan when carried out, will provide and constitute insurance against the happening of that thing, which without it, is sure to happen.

Cost And Benefit

"It would seem clear, therefore, that in the final analysis it becomes a question of benefit versus cost.

"It would be idle to attempt to discuss the likelihood of the recurrence of destructive floods. Such have occurred in the past and they will occur again in the future. The frequency of their probable recurrence, together with their probable magnitude, obviously are problems not subject to exact solution. The history of the past so far as it may be discovered with a reasonable degree of exactitude, will provide an index for the future.

"The citizens of Orange County have in the past, and through their properly constituted agencies, made liberal provisions for engineering studies relative to the matter of flood control and water conservation.

"Although among the many engineers engaged upon these studies there have been honest differences of opinion relative to the merits of the possible location, for some of the requisite structures, there has been a unanimity of opinion as to the necessity, and second as to the magnitude of the requisite structures in order that adequate control and protection be provided.

"Technical discussions serve but to confuse the average citizen. He will have no difficulty, however, in appreciating the fact that when there is complete agreement as to fundamental conclusions among a large group of technically trained individuals, it will be at least reasonable to accept and believe in the correctness thereof.

Relief Sought

"This is in no sense an appeal to the citizens of Orange County to vote for the issuance of these bonds. It is, however, a sincere request that you shall believe in the honesty, integrity, and ability of your technical advisers, all of whom have been in full accord as to these fundamentals which most vitally concern yourselves and your community.

"It is sincerely hoped that you will believe, as they do, that the plan as proposed is a sound one, that it will actually accomplish those things for which it is designed, that it will provide an adequate degree of protection and that any plan of lesser magnitude or which seeks to provide a lesser degree of protection is wholly inadequate and will create a false sense of security which can finally result only in disaster.

"Having faith then in your technical advisers and accepting their conclusions as expressed in this plan of flood control and water conservation, will you not as individuals determine for yourselves whether or not the value of the benefits accruing therefrom are commensurate with the cost thereof?

"Will you not also give very serious consideration to the more important question of whether or not, and irrespective of cost, this community can afford to continue unprotected against the menace of the ravages of recurrent floods and without additional benefits which this plan will provide?

"Your answer to yourself to these questions, will determine for you which way you will vote."

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 10.—Petitions for and objections to the establishment of new bulkhead and pierhead lines in various sections of Newport Bay were heard yesterday by Army engineers and others when a meeting of interested parties was held at the city hall by Capt. R. E. Cruise, of the Army engineer's office in Los Angeles.

The chief request for changes in the lines was made by the Newport Beach city engineer, R. L. Patterson, who outlined several changes he said should be made to conform with lines made by the recent dredging operations in order that the use of newly established channels might be facilitated.

Roy Browning, representing the James Irvine interests, asked in one instance that a spread of 50 feet be given between pierhead and bulkhead lines along Irvine property abutting the bay instead of the 70-foot spread recommended by Engineer Patterson. F. M. Strowbridge asked that slight variations be made in Engineer Patterson's report as it affected the lines around one of the turning basins.

Others speaking were Lew Wallace, local waterfront property owner; Nat Neff, highway superintendent; and James Irvine, heavy real estate owner in the upper bay regions. The report will be taken to the Los Angeles office of the War department, from where it will be sent to Washington for final consideration and changes by the Secretary of War, it was stated.

Others present at the hearing were R. C. Thayer, secretary of the district U. S. Harbor and River division; R. J. Hildebrandt, the engineer who was in charge of the recent Federal dredging operations; H. O. Barrett, local property owner; city councilmen, and others.

The chief request for changes in the lines was made by the Newport Beach city engineer, R. L. Patterson, who outlined several changes he said should be made to conform with lines made by the recent dredging operations in order that the use of newly established channels might be facilitated.

Roy Browning, representing the James Irvine interests, asked in one instance that a spread of 50 feet be given between pierhead and bulkhead lines along Irvine property abutting the bay instead of the 70-foot spread recommended by Engineer Patterson. F. M. Strowbridge asked that slight variations be made in Engineer Patterson's report as it affected the lines around one of the turning basins.

Others speaking were Lew Wallace, local waterfront property owner; Nat Neff, highway superintendent; and James Irvine, heavy real estate owner in the upper bay regions. The report will be taken to the Los Angeles office of the War department, from where it will be sent to Washington for final consideration and changes by the Secretary of War, it was stated.

Others present at the hearing were R. C. Thayer, secretary of the district U. S. Harbor and River division; R. J. Hildebrandt, the engineer who was in charge of the recent Federal dredging operations; H. O. Barrett, local property owner; city councilmen, and others.

Marking the 400th anniversary of the printing of the first English Bible, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, spoke before Rotarians here today.

Introduced by Ralph Smedley, program chairman, the Rev. Mr. McFarland announced his subject as "400 Years of the English Bible."

In his talk the speaker pointed out that the Bible did not fall from Heaven, as the Mohammedans believe of the Koran. It was not written by the hand of God, he said, but was handed down through the ages.

Original copies of the book were destroyed during the era of Christian persecution and there is not one of the originals to be found in the world. The era of Christian persecution continued, he said, until the Emperor Constantine, himself, became a Christian and ordered Eusebius to make 50 copies of the gospel.

All these 50 copies were lost during the persecution era and were not discovered until 75 years ago when a German scholar found what is known as the Sinaitic version in a monastery at the foot of Mt. Sinai. This copy belonged to the Greek Catholic church in Petrograd, Russia, until two years ago when it was sold to the British museum by the Soviet government for $500,000.

Other Early Copies

Two other versions, known as the Vatican version and the Alexandrian version are owned, respectively by the Roman Catholic church and the Protestant church. The Alexandrian version is kept in the British museum.

The first completed English version of the entire Bible came from the press on October 4, 1535 and, admittedly, was filled with errors. It was printed by Miles Coverdale who was considered to be one of the poorest students of his day. The first English version of the new testament, however, was translated by William Tyndal, one of the greatest of English scholars. Translated by Tyndal, the new testament was first printed in 1525.

While translating and printing the new testament Tyndal was forced to flee England and smuggle the printed books back. Through a friend of his, a merchantman, all copies of the first edition of the new testament, were purchased by the Bishop of London to be burned at the foot of St. Paul's cross. Money obtained through sale of the edition was used to print a more nearly correct edition of the same book.

In 1537 Tyndal was strangled and his body burned, because of his belief, and as he died he prayed that the king of England would see the light and become converted. Three years later the first Bible, authorized by the king of England, was printed and circulated among the people.

To facilitate the obtaining of the book by all people, John Wycliffe had many copies made by hand. Several of these copies are still in existence and highly prized by libraries.

Finish Work On Church In Brea

BREA, Dec. 10.—Workmen have practically completed remodeling the chapel of the Baptist church and the plastering is now being done. Two new rooms on either side of the entry, as well as the entry walls, have been removed, thus adding about a third more seating capacity to the chapel.

Plans now are for building a vestibule at the entrance to the church school department, which opens to the chapel through a side door.

COAST GROUP ARRANGES FOR ANNUAL PARTY

COSTA MESA, Dec. 10.—Members of the Orange County Coast association are planning their annual Christmas party to be held the night of December 17 at the Women's clubhouse in Costa Mesa.

Mulhron is advising every member of the association to bring one gift, to cost not more than 10 cents, to be placed in the bag for distribution. These gifts must not be labeled and Santa Claus will use his discretion in their distribution.

SAFETY WORK OUTLINED FOR CLUB MEMBERS

ORANGE, Dec. 10.—Dr. Florence Brown last night presented a health program at the regular meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club, with Capt. Henry Meehan of the state highway patrol and Ed Higgins of the Orange Fire department as the speakers.

Captain Meehan titled his talk, "How to Be Healthy Through Driving" and told of the safety work of the patrol in its school program, in enforcement of laws and in educational and engineering projects. He also explained the new automobile license law which requires payment of tax before January 30 and application for license before February 4.

Higgins told of the use of the inhalator and gave the women pointers on first aid and what to do in case of fire. Members of the department demonstrated the use of the inhalator and methods of carriage and first aid treatment, with Melvin Clement as the patient and Harry Neuffer, George Horton, Charles Olds and Floyd Watson illustrating Higgins' talk.

Dr. Brown brought startling facts concerning accidents in the present day, both on the highway and in homes and occupations. Music of the evening featured Miss Lois Allen in two piano selections.

Mrs. Florence Donegan presided at the business meeting and announced that the meeting scheduled for December 23 will be omitted. Miss Leona Freeman asked members to bring donations to her for the Christmas baskets to be distributed by the welfare board. Mrs. Laura Warren reported that the Red Cross roll call in Orange

An amount of gold was secured by the intruder who escaped after Dr. Baker, working in an inner room, had surprised him in the outer office.

Dr. Baker fired two shots as the man ran down the stairs and made a dash for a car parked on South Orange street. Neither shot took effect. J. Edward Bertman, local business man gave chase, securing the number of the machine, 7K-446. The machine was a green coupe with black fenders.

WAR VETERANS HEAR SERMON BY DR. MCAULAY

ORANGE, Dec. 10.—Spanish-American War veterans were special guests at the morning service of the Trinity Episcopal church Sunday. In his sermon the Rev. J. A. Shirley, pastor of the church, presented the prophet Micah as a recruiting officer for the Kingdom of God.

"Micah sets forth clearly three things that are required for enlistment in the Kingdom," the speaker said, quoting from the book of the minor prophet, "to do justly, and love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

Enlarging on these three requirements, the Rev. Mr. Shirley said: "A man must be straight and honest in his dealings with his fellowmen. The financial crisis that has caused so much suffering was due to lack of fair and honest dealings in business."

The pastor urged mercy for those in trouble. "You may have the law on your side to say that you may foreclose and take away the widow's home, but God wants you to be lenient," he told the congregation.

In closing the speaker stated that the soldier who would not permit the flag of his country to be insulted should maintain the same high respect for God. "Recognize your need of God and your obligations to Him," he said.

THE AMAZING CAREER OF ALL-AMERICA LARRY LUTZ

(This is the second of two articles.) Hard and the Best twins, Elliott and Everett.

Larry Lutz was no overnight sensation, even in high school football.

The records show he saw almost no action as a sophomore, but Coach G. A. Oliver must have sensed the rangy youngster, then 15 and weighing about 165 pounds, had possibilities. At any rate, Lutz was placed at left tackle, most difficult defensive position on the gridiron. And the following fall, 1930, Lutz was established as a regular. His running mate at right tackle was Joe Preininger, who this year played against Larry as a University of Southern California lineman.

Partly because of Lutz and several other big, fast boys, notably Floyd Blower, the Saint mentor in 1931 deliberately changed from the Jones system to the Notre Dame shift in spring practice, believing this particular type of material better suited to the Rockne attack. I remember Oliver telling me that "Lutz should be the best tackle in the Coast league next year."

Oliver was right as far as he went. He didn't go far enough. Later developments proved Larry Lutz was the best high school tackle in Southern California.

Lutz and his brothers, Howard and Everett, spent a lot of time on the bench at Balboa that summer but not all of it was time lost. Every day they saw the now robust schoolboy through his eyes in the sand-blasting, charging and running. When the fall of 1931 arrived, and Lutz returned to Santa Ana for his senior season of football, he was a magnificent physical specimen of about 185 pounds, and he was in the finest possible condition.

The most successful season in Santa Ana high school's football history followed.

Lutz at left tackle was an outstanding figure. The key man in the backfield was Floyd Blower, who had played with Larry in junior high school and was later to co-star with him in college. Other memorable players on the undefeated Saints of '31 were Earl Harris, Fred Bell, Miles Norton, Allen Kiddier, Francis Conrad, Earl Halderman, Douglas Hinesley and Floyd Montgomery.

No other team in Saint history surpassed this unless, as some outsiders still maintain, it was the mighty machine of 1921 with such players as Jeff Cravath, Don Williams, Newt Stark, Earl Jabs, Bart Cock, Elwyn Wilcox, Harry Le-

Davis Beats Kudo But Loses Brush To Fans

By PAUL VISSMAN

Nick Lutz, 270-pound former Venice life guard, and Kimo Kudo, 175-pound Japanese wrestler, divided honors at the push and grunt exhibition staged by the Orange County Athletic club last night.

Lutz defeated Tom Johnson, 320-pound clown, and Kudo lost to "Wee Willie" Davis, 240-pounder, but looked greater in defeat than Davis did winning. At least the fans thought he looked greater and, fans, boys and girls, is what wrestling matches are staged for.

Lutz was scheduled to wrestle George Maloney, exponent of the "Irish whip," and when Maloney failed to show Johnson was substituted. The first fall went to Lutz in 13 minutes and 22 seconds. He used a double leg trip. Lutz won the second fall in 8:30, using a flock of punches to the jaw and an arm lock.

Even wrestlers have a sense of humor and Lutz proved it when he got tired of Johnson running for the ropes when the going was tough. Catching the behemoth with one leg through the ropes Lutz gave a twist and Johnson was so securely tied that the services of four men were required to untangle him. In the operation Danny Daniels, timekeeper, caught a foot in the ropes and was thrown back into the laps of spectators.

Conference Grid Shakeup!

SCHMELING TO BOX JOE LOUIS IN JUNE, 1936

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Max Schmeling of Germany, former heavyweight champion, today agreed to meet Joe Louis, sensational Detroit Negro, in a 15-round bout at a New York baseball park next June.

Schmeling appeared before the state athletic commission and asked for permission to meet Jimmy Braddock, world champion. The commission said that Max first would have to dispose of Louis. Schmeling agreed to attempt to arrange such a match.

Mike Jacobs, who holds Louis' contract, was attending the commission meeting and immediately offered to arrange a Schmeling-Louis fight.

JUNIORS WIN FROM SAINT SOPHS, 16-12

Leading throughout, the juniors were able to earn an easy victory over the sophomores in the first inter-class basketball game at Santa Ana high school yesterday.

The juniors took the lead in the first quarter when they got two points from charity tosses and chalked seven more digits in the second quarter. It was not until the second half that the underclassmen were able to score. Forward Ernest Price made the only two field goals for the sophs in the first half.

Bill Milligan proved to be the mainstay of the juniors.

The lineup:

Sophomores (12): (1) Price, (2) Kadowaki, (3) Stafford and Lopez. Score by Quarters: 1st 4-12, 2nd 4-12, 3rd 4-12, 4th 4-12. Total 16-12.

HIPPS AND BURKHART HEAD THURS BOXING

The Orange County Athletic club featured Salior Hipps of the U. S. S. Penacola in the main boxing bout at the 101 Highway arena Thursday night. Hipps meets the ace light-heavyweight of the Smart Set A. C. of Los Angeles in a four rounder. He is Al Burkhardt.

Hipps has been a consistent winner here, defeating all opposition with the single exception of "Bud" Holzhauser. Many ringers even questioned that verdict, as Hipps battled the "Blond Bomber" to the four corners of the ring in the final round.

Five other members of the Smart Set squad will appear on the forthcoming amateur program, including Johnny Toomes, Jimmy DuPre, Freddie Howard, Henry Lowe, Clover Wilson and Willie Fields.

Home talent will supply the opposition. They are Raoul Solis, making his second start in his comeback campaign; Salior Bowen, Art Arroya, Maxie Moore, Baby Rosales and Salior Dye. Salior Eddie Hydon and Al Garcia mix in the opener.

JEFF' CRAVATH TO BE DINNER SPEAKER

Newell (Jeff) Cravath, former Santa Ana who is now assistant to Coach Howard Jones at the University of Southern California, accepted an invitation today to speak at the banquet Friday night for Santa Ana high school's football squad.

Cravath will be accompanied here by Joe Preininger, Saint tackle in 1929 and 1930, now playing left guard for the Trojans.

Santa Ana's 1936 captain will be announced at the dinner which will be held in the Green Cat cafe at 6:30. Leading candidates are Lyle Moyer, Ferris Wall, Harold Tucker, Leonard Stafford, Dwight Nott and Bill Musick.

18 SAINTS AWARDED CLASS B NUMERALS

Monograms today were awarded 18 Class B football players at Santa Ana High school by Coach Clyde Cook.

Those honored were Ernest Barrett, Lyle Boyle, Clyde Cave, Horace Codling, Laurence Dresser, Jim Dudley, Harry Harvey, Harvey Hemphill, Harold Jesse, Leon Kaplan, Mitsuo Nitta, Joe Ortega, Ralph Pagenkopf, Joe Partida, Charley Sawyer, Joe Standiford, Frank Was and Herschel Whitney. Bill Nowotny and Regina Quintana received manager's letters.

JAYSEE ELECTS CO-CAPTAINS

John Lehnhardt and Al Titensor Lead Dons in 1936

BILL SPAULDING PICKS REDS

For the first time in its football history, Santa Ana junior college will have co-captains next season. Defying the ill luck which incapacitated five leaders in four successive years from 1930-33, Coach Bill Cook's squad last night elected Fullback John Lehnhardt and End Allen Titensor to pilot the Dons in 1936.

Walt Hickman, star blocking back, was named honorary captain for 1935, no regular skipper having been picked after Captains Al Kluhe in 1930, Mike Santa Cruz in 1931, Jimmy Hall and Jack Fredericks in 1932 and Ben Koral in 1933, one after another, had suffered injuries that put them on the bench virtually the entire season.

The occasion was the team's annual banquet at the Green Cat cafe at which Coach Bill Spaulding of U. C. L. A. was principal speaker. Lehnhardt and Titensor were both outstanding members of the '35 aggregation which is expected to be much improved next term since 26 of the 31 letter-winners will be eligible.

In addition to Captains Lehnhardt and Titensor, Coach Cook awarded monograms to the following Dons: Walt Hendrie, Bill Greencher, Fred Erdhaus and Harry Stanley, ends; Clarence Bolton, Nelson Rogers, Al Oliphant, Ray Devine and Charles Roemer, tackles; Carl Benson, Art Craft, Howard Rash, Hal Mosiman, Dock Connel and Dick DeSmet, guards;

Bob Spray, Bob Holmes, Les Minder and Harold Youel, centers; Oliver McCarter, Joe Herbert, Major Anderson and Bruce Harnois, quarterbacks; Walt Hickman, Al Lamb, Ralph Comstock and Fred Lentz, halfbacks; Dick Moore and Byron Nott, fullbacks.

Manager's letter went to Preston Piper, Waldo Smith and Harry Matsukani.

After keeping 125 players and guests in good humor with a sparkling after-dinner address, Coach Spaulding closed by virtually picking Stanford to defeat Southern Methodist university in the Rose Bowl January 1. His Bruins were the only ones to oppose both teams, and Spaulding's opinion was surprising because U. C. L. A. defeated Stanford, 7-6, but lost to S. M. U., 21-0.

"I don't know which will win," Spaulding conceded, "but if we had to play 'em over again I should prefer meeting S. M. U. to Stanford. When we played Stanford we were in much better condition than when we opposed the Mustangs. Stanford has more power in and out of tackle. S. M. U. is faster and trickier. Stanford will in if it can stop S. M. U.'s passes. Maybe the Indians can anyway. I believe S. M. U. will have to score more than twice to win."

S. M. U. TO RECEIVE DICKINSON'S TROPHY

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Southern Methodist university will receive the Knute K. Rockne trophy signifying the 1935 national intercollegiate football championship, according to the Dickinson rating system.

The Mustangs scored 28.01 points in the system devised by Prof. Frank Dickinson of the University of Illinois. Minnesota scored 27.35 points. The gophers failed to win the championship, Dickinson explained, because they did not meet outstanding intersectional opponents.

Princeton ranked third with 26 points. Other teams finished in the following order: Louisiana State, 24.03; Stanford and California, 23.11; Ohio State, 22.21; Texas, 22.11; Christian, 22.01; Notre Dame, 21.66; U. C. L. A., 21.25.

Saint Football Aces Report For Basketball Team

The varsity basketball squad was substantially increased today by the appearance of several boys up from the football ranks of Santa Ana high school. The turnout included Erwin Youel, Bill Sermnacher, Mac Beall, Warren Mann and Nitsuo Nitta. Others who are expected are Billy Musick and Vernon Carney.

Youel, a two year letterman, is expected to win a first string position. The others who reported have all had at least a year of varsity basketball experience except Nitta, a former Class B player, and Musick, who was a member of the Julia Lathrop junior high school squad.

COAST ELEVEN TO PLAY SEVEN LEAGUE GAMES

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Pacific Coast conference members barred their football stadiums today to a majority of the non-conference eleven which formerly have split the swag of lucrative seasonal grid contests.

The action not only left a majority of the independent teams out in the cold, but also sounded the death knell of "cinch schedule" championships and precluded further criticism of coast teams for failing to meet all available competition.

Each team, with the exception of Montana and Idaho, perennial contenders for the "cellar championship," booked at least seven games against conference opponents. The Rocky Mountain universities were limited to four apiece and immediately began casting about for meetings with stronger non-conference schools dropped from the schedules of major western universities.

The effect of the round-robin schedule virtually was to eliminate Montana and Idaho as conference members.

The move of the California members in dropping the Rocky Mountain teams was not entirely unexpected. Complaints were made of Montana's "rough play" in Los Angeles against U. S. C. this year. Their appearance at Stanford drew only a few thousand fans. Idaho's visit to California in 1934 also was a "dud" so far as financial returns were concerned.

U. C. L. A. was the only team outside the Northwest to book

BOSTON-BOUND

Slugging Jimmy Foxx, below, home run hitter of the Philadelphia Athletics, was sold today to the Boston Red Sox.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The Boston Red Sox, hot after the American league pennant in 1905, today acquired Jimmy Foxx, first baseman, and Johnny Marcum, pitcher, from the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Red Sox gave Connie Mack two players, Gordon Rhodes, pitcher, and George Savino, rookie catcher, and an unnamed amount of cash for the Athletic stars.

Eric McNair, shortstop, and Roger Cramer, outfielder, two other stars Mack was reported ready to send to the Red Sox, were not involved in the deal, according to Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox. Joe Cronin, manager, and Tom Yawkey, millionaire owner of the Red Sox, were present when the announcement was made.

The amount of cash turned over to Mack was reported to have been in the neighborhood of $150,000, thus rating the venerable athletic manager again as one of baseball's most famous player peddlers.

The only other deal announced so far at the major league baseball convention here was the big "mystery" transaction between the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals. It was made during the minor league meeting at Dayton a month ago.

Horace Stoneham, son of the owner of the Giants, revealed that his club traded Pitchers Roy Parmelee and Allyn Stout, Second baseman Al Cucinello and Utility infielder Phil Weintraub for Burgess Whitehead, substitute second baseman.

Weintraub, Stout and Cucinello probably will be sent to Columbus in the American association, a Cardinal farm. Parmelee, once a great pitcher, had a sore arm all last season.

Entries for the seventh annual Southern Counties basketball tournament at Huntington Beach closed today with a formidable list of 24 outstanding high school teams.

The competition begins the afternoon of December 19 and continues three days, finals being scheduled Saturday night, December 21.

As was the case last year, there will be three divisions: major, intermediate and minor. There will be team and individual trophy awards in each class. Eight teams will compose each division.

Starters in the major group, won last season by Long Beach Poly, will be Santa Ana, Chaffey, Muir Tech, Redondo Beach, Fullerton, Anaheim, Excelsior and Compton. Intermediate quintets are Huntington Beach, 1934 champion; Orange, Leuzinger, Jordan, Corona, Newport Harbor, Garden Grove and Downey. In the minor division are Tustin, '34 winner; Bonita, Chino, Claremont, Brea-Olinda, Valencia, San Juan Capistrano and Laguna Beach.

VIRGINIANS TOPPLE S. A. IN GOLF FINAL

Dreams of a Southern California women's golf championship for the Santa Ana Country club were rudely dispelled today as a result of Virginia, 8½ points to 3½, in yesterday's closing Eastern division match here.

Santa Ana could have overcome the Long Beach squad's lead with a 7-5 victory and could have tied with 6½ points.

The summary:

Mrs. Ray Williams and Miss Marie Lovell (V) 3 points; Mrs. J. L. McFadden and Mrs. L. H. Robinson (SA) 0.

COMMENTS ON NEW BOOKS

By Ethel Walker, Librarian
Santa Ana Public Library

A new feature is being introduced this week into the service at the Santa Ana Public Library in the nature of an "Inspection Shelf". On the first and third Saturdays of each month the new non-fiction will be placed on display. The books will be held for one week, going into circulation the following Saturday. Everyone, in this way, is given the opportunity to see and examine the new books before they are put into circulation. During the "inspection period" reserve cards may be left for any books in which a reader may be especially interested. These "reserve" cards are filed in the order in which they are left and borrowers will be notified when the book is ready for them. There is a charge of one cent for each card left.

A special service to clubs or book reviewing groups permits an individual reviewing a book before a group to take precedence over the other requests in order that the book may be had when most needed. This is made possible by taking one copy out of circulation to be used by the reviewing groups. Anyone needing a book for this purpose should request the special service for which the card is stamped "For review."

The group of books which are now being held for inspection cover a variety of subjects and wide range of interest. They include several of the outstanding publications of the Fall.

Travel and Exploration . . .

The most important book in this group to Californians is, of course, Drury's "California". The sub-title reads "An intimate guide" and it is just that, giving the reader a picture of the most important historic spots in the state, with their background and beautifully illustrated. An excellent book for a very special gift. "This Business of Exploring" by Roy Chapman Andrews and "Discovery" by Richard Byrd seem related books although one is laid in the Gobi Desert and the other in Antarctica. They are both concrete examples of modern scientific exploration. Two of our most entertaining travel writers in the lighter vein are: Richard Halliburton with his "Seven League Boots" in which he strides from country to country including from his lair, Russia, Abyssinia, Turkey, Greece, and several others; Harry Franck in his "Training Corps Through Mexico" covering a different route than Halliburton in his Mexican tour described in "New Worlds to Conquer." Harry Franck possesses his own inimitable power of entertainment.

Biography
The most popular biography of the moment is probably the O'Brien. "Will Rogers, Ambassador of Good-Will, Prince of Wit and Wisdom." It is the story of his life from boyhood to tragic death and is replete with his delightful humor and philosophy. The $10,000 Atlantic prize biography is a book a reader will not soon forget. It is "Old Jules," by Sandor, the very real story of an old Nebraskan homesteader and pioneer. Two European biographies are included: "Sawdust Caesar," by Gilbert Seldes is a sharply critical biography of Mussolini. The writer will be remembered for his "Freedom of the Press" and "From Blood and Profits" and many other similar works. "Escape from the Soviets," by Madame Tchernavin, wife of the author of "I Speak for the Silent," the book which caused widespread interest earlier in the year. This is the wife's story of the same series of persecutions.

History
"Ethiopia, a Pawn of European Diplomacy," is particularly timely. The writer was for some time an official adviser to Haile Selassie's government. Lin Yutang, author of "My Country and My People" is a product of the "East" and the "West." Educated in a Chinese missionary school he has travelled extensively in the West, and, in his book, he tells why he has come to prefer the eastern ways. Said to be one of the most readable of the recent books, Charles F. Doble, in "Tongues of the Monte" weaves many of the legends of Mexico into a story of action and adventure. "Our Times, The Twenties" is the concluding volume of Mark Sullivan's detailed account of contemporary social history. Following the tradition of all post-war periods "the twenties" were unsettled and turbulent.

Psychology and Ethics
"Power to See It Through" by Harry Emerson Fosdick is practical Christianity as preached by this eminent clergyman, pastor of the Riverside Community church, established and endowed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. And in "Sanity First," by Jastrow, we have applied psychology in popular form, teaching us how "employ" our "beliefs" and "reasons" to "handle our liabilities" and much good advice of that nature.

Literature
"The Woolcott Reader" compiled by Alexander will, no doubt, sail rapidly into the "best seller" class, for anything that Mr. Woolcott mentions in his Sunday broadcast immediately has a vogue. The present volume is a collection of 16 complete novels, stories and essays which have been favorites of the critic. Mr. Woolcott explains his interest and these comments form an interesting feature of the book. A new play by Maxwell Anderson is always an event. Mr. Anderson, a son of California, will be remembered for his many contributions to the American theater, among them "Elizabeth I the Queen." His new play "Winter" follows to some extent the Irish tradition in treatment, much of it having rhythm. There is harsh reality in the story and theme, however. Two books of poetry are included: "Medea," by the well-known Negro poet, Countee Cullen, is a modern version of Euripides' "The Medea"; "King Jasper" by Edwin Arlington Robinson is a narrative poem which was completed just before the death of this distinguished author.

Miscellaneous
"Eat, Drink and Be Wary," is another "One Hundred Million Guinea Pig" and is about foods chiefly. The author was a collaborator in the first book.

"Wild Flowers," by House is probably the most beautiful book of the year. It contains 264 plates, almost entirely in color, of the familiar wild flowers of the United States. The California varieties lead the procession, by right of numbers. Another lovely flower book is "Flower Arrangement," by Rockwell, which introduces many clever and novel arrangements and gives art principles involved. In "How Does Your Garden Grow," the writer, Beverly Nichols, reviews passion garden chatter indulged in by himself and several literary friends. "The Thatched Roof," and "Down the Garden Path," by books of recent years.

Three books which might be described as "hobby" books are Anderson's "How to Draw Cartoons"; Morrison's "New Way to Better Golf" and "Cats," by Simmons, a very satisfactory appearing book.

These books will go into circulation Saturday, December 14.

In Old New York...

By GEORGE ROSS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—He was seated on the sofa in his 21-year-old daughter's apartment some where along the Forties. He gave me a shock when I entered because the wrinkled, crackle-barrel philosopher I expected turned out to be a tall, youthful-looking, clean-shaven man in his forties without even a corn-cob clinging between his lips.

The moment, he spoke, however, there was no doubt about his identity.

It was Chic Sale.

He has come to New York from Hollywood for two reasons. One to see his daughter, Cherry, who thinks her father is the funniest man in the world and who is learning how to be a good violinist at the Juilliard School of Music. The other, to put in a personal appearance around town before the picture houses release his latest two-reeler, "The perfect Tribute," in which he portrays Abraham Lincoln. This is the first time he's made up as Lincoln on the stage or screen, although he hauled a vaudeville act around with him for years called "The Man Who Knew Lincoln." He's just signed up to do a series of shorts about great men of history and General Ulysses S. Grant is next on the calendar. He may even double as General Lee.

"A character actor," he sez, "has got to know to do everything."

"The movie fans get the notion that I'm a crochety old gent with mattress-stuffing whiskers and chawin' tobacco manners," the dapper Chic said, "and that notion has turned out to be mighty profitable. A lady from out in the middle west somewhere wrote in the other day and sez my set of false teeth were the finest she's ever seen and where did I get 'em. I haven't had any of my own teeth yanked since I was eleven, but tell that to the lady who's always seen me on the screen as a country yokel with one foot in the plow ditch and the other in the grave, and she'll think you're spoofin' her. That's why I'd like to sit away from corn country types for a while and do some different character actin'."

Concentrated Acting
"It ain't the beard or the corn-cob or a couple of layers of grease-paint that makes the character," he continued in confidence. "It's the power of concentration. If you're gonna pretend you're somebody else, why, you have got to believe you're somebody else without wearing a wig or a pasted-on moustache. Look, I'll show you!"

"The Specialist" leaped up from the sofa, twisted his face into a toothless grimace, stretched himself forward into a tall, bowed old man, and his daughter, Cherry, exclaimed, "Why, it's John D. Rockefeller!" When "Chic" Sale reached into his side-pocket for what I gathered to be a dime, I was willing to agree with her. Then, in rapid succession, he distorted his flexible face into likenesses of Mae West, Mussolini and a country preacher. Beardless, but with a mellowed voice, he began to recite the Gettysburg address. A sample was sufficient to show us what he meant by hypnotizing himself into becoming somebody else without hanging around the make-up department.

On Busman's Birthday

On his first recent visit to New York Chic Sale spends most of his time in the balconies of moving picture theaters catching up on films he's missed in Hollywood. He would like to come back to Broadway sometime and appear in a comedy and would have come to play the scraggly Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road" which is right up his alley, if Jeeter Lester had not so much gold-dusted cussin' to do. "I've never uttered a swear word in my life, either on or off the stage," he vowed to me from the sofa, "and I wouldn't say out in public what I wouldn't want my children and my mother and father to hear."

His mother and father (who was the first dentist to practice painless extraction in South Dakota) still live in Illinois, where Chic picked up his talent for impersonating Yankee greybeards who haunted a general store. He goes back to see them annually and finds the general store, the grain elevator, Josh Connor's farm, the little red schoolhouse and the parental manse where he left them. Even the paint-streaked cabanas, he celebrated in his little book, "The Specialist," have not disappeared from the home-town scene.

A Christmas gift for all next year... for all the family

A TELEPHONE for a Christmas present! Is the idea unusual? It is the unusual gift that usually pleases the most! Can anything else do as much as the telephone for the different members of your family? Run so many errands, save so much time and inconvenience, bring help so quickly in the emergencies? Those are some of the "practical" things it does. But it does far more. It links people with friends... extends the range of their interests... helps to bring opportunities their way.

A telephone is a gift that the whole family will use and enjoy. May we tell you more about it? A representative will be pleased to call at your convenience.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By DAN THOMAS, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—Basil Rathbone is Hollywood's most disguised man these days. Having made quite a reputation for himself as a villainous character, he now has to pass a beauty mark on his cheek every morning for his role of the Marquis de St. Evremonte in "A Tale of Two Cities."

Repeat Engagement

The other night, while driving home, Nelson Eddy hit a bump, lost control of his car, and smashed into a lamp post. The actor wasn't even scratched, but the repair bill on his car amounted to $85. Just a year ago he met with an accident on the same corner and the repair bill at that time also was $85.

Still at Circus

Merle Oberon's favorite evening sport is riding on roller coasters and popping darts in shooting galleries. About three times a week he can be found on one of the beach amusement piers with David Niven and Brian Aherne—all three whooping it up like high school kids.

Star and Artist

Jean Parker really has her hands full now. In addition to her acting, she has agreed to make eight original sketches a month for a Beverly Hills shop. And those sketches can't be dashed off in 10 minutes.

Won't Give up

After completing four scenarios without taking a day off, Bess Meredith was ordered by her physician to the hospital for a complete rest. But on her third day there she started writing a play about a hospital, making her doctor the heavy.

Editor Register:

It might be well to pause and think before voting "Yes" on an issue so recently submitted to the public and turned down.

It seems strange that the proponents of this venture insofar as it pertains to constantly lowering water levels have not stopped to note that there is always water in Santa Ana river at the Prado site and in spite of that fact levels keep falling.

If water there in quantity would help this valley, we may wonder why that that comes does not slip into the ground and come down to us in undersurface streams. We might more readily, perhaps, conclude that there is beyond our county line an impervious wall below the surface that keeps water from sinking.

Since 1885 the writer has been in this valley and hundreds here can testify that it is far this side of Prado that water disappears in the riverbed and yet there has never been a year, even after a great flood when the sandy bed has not, months after swallowed the stream, which seems to lead to the conclusion—"not at Prado." It would be "too bad" to squander so much money on the other fellow's property and then discover we have erred, besides developing a wonderful possibility for future litigation.

In the San Joaquin valley irrigation districts have been formed and back in the mountains substantial work has been done that guarantees safety, on bedrock formation, for not flood control alone, but for an assured water supply and generation of electricity for the district at a price such that lighting and cooking can be reasonably provided for.

This last thought of a high mountain dam may be a nut's dream, for not being an engineer, and not having consulted any, wise men and women may laugh it to scorn; and there will be no offense to the writer. It has been offered only as a reflection. Not so long ago the waters of Santiago creek were checked by a dam above the park, but we have not heard of any one's comment on the fact that water levels raised as a result of that impounding. So long as there is no hole in the water basin, outside that basin remains dry so far as that particular container is concerned; just so will our water levels remain low unless water above can come in, which seems an impossibility from Prado. On the last vote we supported the bond issue, but not now.

COUNTY MUST KEEP GAS TAX RECORD CLEAR

In the future, county supervisors must give detailed reports of their expenditure of gasoline tax funds if their allocations of highway money is to be received on time, according to word received here today.

Julien D. Russell, secretary of the California highway commission, recently held up checks for quarterly allocations and since that time has released allocations to 40 counties after receipt of proper information concerning expenditures.

"As a result of the investigation by the division of highways of the expenditure of gas tax funds by counties and the consequent holding up of quarterly allocations, we expect that reports of boards of supervisors in the future will be more comprehensive and detailed and in conformity with the law," Russell said.

"Some abuses and irregularities in the handling of these funds were called to the attention of supervisors and a standard form of report insisted upon. We are co-operating with the counties whose allocations have not yet been released and as rapidly as the reports of their supervisors are checked and approved, their gas tax apportionments will be paid."

SEN. NYE TO SPEAK AT CLAREMONT SOON

CLAREMONT, Dec. 10.—United States Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the special congressional committee on investigation of the munitions industry, will speak on "War, Munitions, and Neutrality," at Bridges auditorium, Claremont, on December 13, at 4 p. m.

Nye, although only 42 years old, has served in the senate for 10 years. He is a former newspaper man.

Since the death of Senator Thomas Walsh he has become one of the senate's principal inquirers in senate investigations. His committee's revelation of the trade in war materials created a sensation at home and abroad. In addition to his personal story of the munitions investigation it is anticipated that he will discuss the important problem of neutrality.

County Fair Exhibit To Be Changed

The Orange county exhibit at the International Exposition at San Diego will be completely remodeled before the January 15 reopening of the exposition.

The supervisors have authorized the use of the $500 prize money for this purpose and the county publicity director, V. D. Johnson has outlined the general plan for the remodeling.

Instead of the large jewel box containing a quantity of oranges, the display will show a model orange grove with residence. These will be actual trees approximately 12 inches in diameter, with small golden fruit against a painted background of hill and sky.

The large map now forming part of the exhibit will be moved to the left and instead of the bare brown walls showing no heretofore, the exhibit will have a canopy ceiling of sky blue.

Miss Lolita Mead, who was hostess last year has been re-employed for the 1935 season.

FULL NUMBER OF PRECINCTS FOR ELECTION

Attention of voters of Santa Ana high school district today was called by the board of education to the fact that there will be the customary 74 polling places at the bond election next Thursday, instead of the 13 polling places into which the district was consolidated at the last bond election.

Each of the 71 regular polling places in the city of Santa Ana and the usual polling places in Paulino, Diamond and Greenville school districts will be used at the election next Thursday.

Voters also were reminded that the polling places for the school bond election will not necessarily be the same as for the water bond election on December 13, and warning was given against confusing notices of polling places sent out for the water bond election, with polling places for the school bond election.

No Notices

No notices are being sent through the mails regarding polling places for the school bond election. It was said, as the school code does not permit the board of education to expend funds for mailing sample ballots and the advice slips, giving the location of polling places.

However, special messengers will bring to each home a map showing each voter's polling place for the school bond election, it was stated. The importance of each voter knowing where he or she will go to vote, was emphasized. At the last school bond election, in September, only 13 polling places were used, but that plan was abandoned for this week's election, and the usual election precinct polling places will be used.

HUMOR MAGAZINE PLANNED AT JAYCEE

Plans yesterday were announced for the publication of a magazine of humor by students of the Santa Ana Junior college, with John Rabe as editor. Rabe, also editor of El Don, plans the first issue for February.

Rabe stated that the magazine will be on the order of The Sagehen of Pomona college and The Pelican of the University of California. It has been successfully tried with other junior colleges, according to Rabe, notably The Tab of Pasadena Jaycee.

It will be a monthly publication. Rabe indicated that the emphasis will be on feature articles. The editions will be illustrated, probably by Jaycee students.

EXAMS SCHEDULED FOR STATE JOBS

Announcement of examinations to qualify persons desiring to become eligible for the positions of county agricultural commissioners, deputy commissioners and county agricultural inspectors, was made today by the State Department of Agriculture.

The written examination for those who seek places on the county agricultural inspector eligi-

812 PERMITS SO FAR AMOUNT TO $924,075

Prosperity, as reflected by the building permits, has definitely returned to Santa Ana. According to figures available today at the office of Building Inspector Sam Preble permits already issued this year are approximately three times the total value of permits issued for the entire year of 1934.

When 1934 ended 629 permits had been issued representing a total investment of $354,134. This year 812 permits have been issued up to Saturday night and represented a total investment of $924,075.

Permits for this month, however, are considerably under those of November. To date the permits issued for the month total $10,641 as against a total valuation of $64,548 for November. The two outstanding months for 1935 were March with 63 permits, representing a total valuation of $336,434 and May with a total valuation of $156,533.

Pacific Coast Gains

Pacific Coast building permits registered a 30 per cent increase during November this year over November, 1934, according to the Western Monthly building survey prepared by H. R. Baker and Co., coast investment banking firm. The data was compiled from 30 reporting cities. Permits issued on the coast in November this year totaled $10,084,723 compared with $5,215,622 in November, 1934.

Reports emanating from the 25 cities reporting largest volume of building permits in November showed these cities with larger volume last month than either the preceding months or the corresponding month of 1934. The 25 leading cities in volume of permits reported a 106 per cent increase over the corresponding month of last year, and a small gain over October. Permits in November, 1935, of this group amounted to $3,587,342, compared with $4,125,260 in November, 1934, and $3,507,817 in October, 1935.

SCHOOL BOARD DELAYS EDISON IMPROVEMENTS

Plans of the board of education with respect to rehabilitating Edison school will be deferred until after the school bond election next Thursday, when the board will know just how much money it has to spend on the Edison building, it was decided at a brief session of the board last evening.

Secretary George Newcom reported that, in investigating ways and means of reducing the present hazard of a shaky auditorium structure at Edison school, he obtained an estimate from Contractor Jules Markel that the auditorium tile roof weighs 41,400 pounds. This weight, it is felt, would add a serious strain upon the walls in the event of another earthquake, and it has been proposed to remove the nearly 21 tons of tile and substitute a paper roof.

Permitted Expenditure

The board is permitted to expend up to $4000 on the job without conforming to the state building code, but above that figure the code regulations apply, and involve a more expensive type of construction, it was pointed out.

At Dr. Margaret Baker's suggestion that plans be held up until after the bond election, that course was taken. The board has given its promise to the Edison patrons that all available funds will be used to rehabilitate the Edison building.

Action also was deferred on bids for the contract of supplying chairs for the new high school auditorium. Four bids covered new chairs, two bids being submitted for refinishing the old chairs. Secretary Newcom was instructed to classify the bids and report to the board at its next meeting, two weeks hence.

The board met at 8 p. m. and adjourned after a half-hour session, to attend the annual football banquet.

Ability lists will be held December 31, the places of examination to be determined by A. A. Brock, state director of agriculture, depending upon the number of applicants in the respective counties or groups of counties.

Strict requirements as regards citizenship and experience are set up.

Application blanks may be obtained from any county agricultural commissioner and must be on file with the state director of agriculture, State Office building, Sacramento, not later than December 20, 1935, for each of these examinations.

Officers To Remove Fat In New Gym

BY MALCOLM BOSTWICK

For those members of the Santa Ana police department whose avoirdupois frequently threatens them with classification under the same general waistline measurement as Santa Claus, today was particularly notable. Today, all of the police department's weight-reducing and exercise machines were installed in the squad rooms at the new city hall, and more or less circular waistlines were awaiting the word, "Go!"

The only "trouble" is that, with installation of the "gym" equipment came installation, too, of several sets of "easy" chairs, davenport and other articles conducive to rest and ungracious figures. "What shall be the best ratio in use between the gymnasium and lounge in off-duty hours?" That is the question. The big question today. And also the question of bigness.

Ping-Pong Table

Aside from all of the usual athletic equipment, the 23 men of the department have a first class ping-pong table to work out on. If anyone be in doubt about the strenuousness of ping-pong when played expertly, it will be well to ask Chief Floyd W. Howard. He is said to be good at the game and has played consistent (celluloid) ball all "season." Or, at least, in "seasons" gone by.

With exception of the 23 lockers, installed in the lounge, which the city paid for and allotted to department members, the men themselves provided and paid for the equipment in both the gymnasium and the lounge. Most of the money came from the recent police dance, although Assistant Chief Harry Fink declared the men have been talking over a plan of monthly dues, to buy more equipment later and maintain present athletic equipment and furniture. The "gym" equipment and furniture, obtained at wholesale prices through courtesy of Santa Ana merchants, cost about $1000.

The carpet in the lounge, the kind which makes you want to take off your shoes and stockings and "wade," was moth-proofed Saturday. Now the officers don't find it necessary to drop cigarette and cigar ashes on the carpet to keep out the moths. Anyhow, among the furniture equipment are several ash tray stands.

Other Furnishings

The lounge contains a tall reading lamp besides a generous cell-

OFFICERS KEEP IN SHAPE

Members of the Santa Ana police department, all set to keep in good physical condition in their new gym in the city hall building, are shown below with part of the equipment in the large room, which adjoins the luxurious squad and locker room which boasts a ping pong table, deep leather chairs, and other conveniences. Officer Charles Neer is shown at the left landing one on Ed Lentz' jaw. Detective Sergeant Charles W. Wolford is holding the medicine ball while Assistant Chief Harry Fink punishes the punching bag. ling light system, well-selected curtains for the windows, a $150 radio, two leather covered reading chairs, two davenport sets, including davenports and "easy" chairs, two occasional chairs, two foot stools, the ping-pong table and lockers. All of the "easy" chairs, or reading chairs, are equipped with magazine racks. Rod Bacon of the Edison company donated two paintings, of sea and mountain, by Lillian Morrill Richardson, to grace the walls.

In the exercise room, or gymnasium, adjacent to the lounge are four tumbling mats, two sets of stall bars, a parallel bar, wrist strengthening machine, shoulder and arm developer, a "swell" punching bag, boxing gloves, two medicine balls and lockers for "gym" clothes. A muscle-building pull-weight machine was to be put in place today.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Russick, police matron, and Mrs. Edith Galap, secretary to Chief Howard, twenty-ninth and thirtieth members of the department, also will take advantage of the inviting squad room (or rooms) occasional-ly, if they wish.

With the verbal approval of every department member already given to the rooms, the next signal will be "Action!"—on the weight-reducing apparatus.

EDITORS WILL GET DATA ON WATER BONDS

Vital information relative to the proposed $6,620,000 water bond election scheduled for December 13 will be broadcast tonight when all newspaper editors in the county are guests at a turkey dinner in James' cafe, on West Fourth street.

The dinner, sponsored by the Associated Water Users of Orange County, will be served at 6:30 p. m. According to reservations already made, practically every editor in the county will be in attendance.

In addition to the newspapermen, leading business men and farmers of the community will be present.

A. J. McFadden, chairman of the executive committee for the Associated Water Users of Orange County, opponents of the bond issue, will preside as chairman of the meeting and deliver an address in which he will point out the unnecessary items included in the project and will explain why Orange county voters should again turn down the bonds.

There will be several other speakers who will outline vital points of the campaign in short, but direct, talks. The editors also will be given an opportunity to express their views and ask questions on items not covered by the speakers.

It is said that many of the editors already have lined up against the bonds and are attending the meeting for the purpose of obtaining more ammunition to be used in the campaign.

There has been a decline of about 75 per cent in the average per horsepower price of motor vehicles in the last 10 years.

NIGHT SCHOOL OPENS OFFICE NURSE COURSE

A special invitation to all nurses who are, or hope to be, connected with the medical profession in a secretarial way, is being sent by the office practice class of the Santa Ana adult education department to meet with them from 7 to 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, December 11, in Room 26, Lathrop Junior High school, 1120 South Main street.

During the hour, principal problems confronting the secretary who takes up the duties of office assistant to a doctor will be presented, as well as a brief review of the recent practical textbook, "The Medical Secretary" by Morse.

Also, there will be outlined the possibilities of organizing in January a short, intensive class in typing and office practice for nurses, according to W. W. Wieman, principal of the Lathrop Evening High school.

Jaycee Officials Planning Program For January Meet

Student officials of the Santa Ana Junior college yesterday disclosed progress made in plans for the meeting of Southern California Junior college student officials, to be held in Santa Ana, Jan. 18.

The questions for debate at the conference were decided upon at a recent meeting of the agenda committee at the San Bernardino Valley Junior college. Representatives at that meeting were John Rabe, Santa Ana Junior college student; Miss Dorothy Dietrick, president of the Associated Women Students organization at Santa Monica Jaycee; and Gordon Howard, president of the San Bernardino Jaycee. The three met under the supervision of Dr. Nicholas V. Ricciardi, director of San Bernardino Jaycee.

Value of the 210,924 church edifices in the United States is placed at $3,339,500,610.

Sorority Group Plans Surprise Shower For Member

Little dreaming that the latest meeting of Sigma Tau Psi was anything but the customary chapter session that it purported to be, Mrs. Thomas Jentges was surprised young matron when she learned that she was guest of honor at a gay party planned by Miss Mary Emil Majors, 1811 North Flower street.

There were so many matters of importance for discussion during the business meeting, that Miss Majors was unable to introduce her games program for the evening. For details had to be planned for the annual Christmas formal to be held December 28, and for a covered dish dinner which is an anticipated event of December 19 with the Misses Jean and Betty Rowland, 2418 Fairmont avenue.

The dance will be held in Pacific Coast club and will follow initiation of pledges in the Majors home, with the Misses Mary Emil and Alys Majors as hostesses also at a cocktail party in advance of the dance.

With the matters arranged, chapter members turned their attention to social phases of the evening, and Miss Majors sprung the surprise when she entered with a large tray heaped with Christmas wrapped packages. Mrs. Jentges was the recipient of the gifts, and discovered that they were dainty articles for a layette.

Completing her hospitality, Miss Majors served creamed chicken followed by a dessert course and coffee to her guests who were in addition to Mrs. Jentges, Mrs. Edward Sugden, Mrs. Bruce Vegely of Artesia, Mrs. Woodrow Barnett, Mrs. Roy Grisset, Mrs. Herbert Hill, the Misses Genevieve Glover, Jane Hill, Georgia Turner, Bethel Dickson, Betty Rowland, Harriet Chapman, Jean Rowland, Alys Majors, Marjorie Berkner, and the chapter president, the Misses Fern Berkner, Roselind Schilling, Dolly Cox, Virginia Lee Graves, Lois Courtney, Mrs. Fayette Birtcher of Anaheim, and Mrs. Ralph Jenkins of Fullerton.

Warne-Lukens Wedding Has Pretty Church Setting

United Presbyterian church was setting for a wedding ceremony of unusual charm Saturday night at 8 o'clock when Miss Helen Lukens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lukens, South Sullivan street, became the bride of Minor Warne, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Harry Warne, 326 East Bishop street.

Palms at the altar added to a garden setting including a white trellis studded with chrysanthemums in autumn tones. The bridegroom's father, T. Harry Warne, was at the organ, playing accompaniment for the bride's brother, James Lukens, as he sang "O Promise Me" and "At Dawning." The Wedding Marches played as organ solos served as processional and recessional.

Mr. Lukens gave his daughter in marriage. She was gowning in white lace with a veil and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas, chrysanthemums and a corsage center of gardenias worn later with her traveling costume.

Mrs. Gordon Lindsey of Orange, roommate of the bride at John Brown university in Arkansas a few years ago, was matron of honor. She wore gold crepe, and carried chrysanthemums in rich tones. The two bridesmaids were Miss Jean Hoy, in green crepe, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Barbara Warne, in rust-hued crepe, both with bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Wendell Lukens, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Willis Sherrill and Robert Kelly, son of the Rev. A. E. Kelly, who officiated at the impressive ceremony. Little Miss Florence Griswold, dressed in blue and white, lighted the tapers which gleamed from tall candelabra during the service.

The newly-married couple paused for congratulations following the ceremony, then going to the Lukens' home where a reception was held for relatives and close friends.

Mrs. Lukens were a duobonnet frock, and Mrs. Warne wore black, both with gardenia corsage bouquets. The bride cut an elaborately decorated wedding cake, which was served with other flowers adorned the home for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Warne will live at 2001 Cypress avenue, where they will be at home to their friends in the near future. Mr. Warne is employed on the Irvine ranch.

Happy Observance Paid Fifty-Fifth Bridal Anniversary

"Each year after a golden wedding anniversary, seems like an added jewel in the wedding circle," today declared Mrs. Herbert P. Rankin, in recalling the observance given Sunday to the fifty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Whitcomb.

It was in the Rankin home, 2106 North Main street, that the day was fittingly celebrated with a family party, bringing together not only the Santa Ana relatives, but Mr. and Mrs. Whitcomb's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Whitcomb of Los Angeles and their daughter, Miss Audrey Whitcomb. They completed the party with Mr. and Mrs. Rankin, their daughter and son, Patricia and Danny, Mr. Rankin's father, J. H. Rankin, and the guests of honor.

A turkey dinner menu was served at mid-day to the accompaniment of many flowers, including blossoms sent by friends especially to the celebrants. Afternoon hours were given over to the intimate pleasures of a family reunion, and many kodak pictures were taken to serve as future mementoes of the happy day. Regret was expressed that the third in Mr. and Mrs. Whitcomb's family of children, Mrs. Maurine Rogers of Peoria, Mrs. Margaret Rogers of their daughter, Miss Grace Rogers, could not be present in reality as they were in spirit.

It was on December 7, 1880, in Cambridge, Vt., that Miss Clara Flagg, daughter of the community physician, Dr. Lloyd Robert Flagg, was wedded to George R. Whitcomb, superintendent of the Cambridge schools in which the bride was one of the teachers. The young couple did not remain long in Vermont, but with a true pioneer spirit sought a new home in Minnesota where their children were born. In the beginning of the new century they came to California where they have since resided.

Mr. Whitcomb, despite his more than eighty years, and the handicap of the last few years, of blindness, maintains his keen interest in life, with a catholic taste that leads from football to world affairs. Mrs. Whitcomb aids in this by reading aloud and acting as his secretary, while the radio gives him up to the minute information on all in which he is interested. At present he is embodying his years of study and reading of early California history, in a book of fiction. He dictates his story, chapter by chapter, and the dictaphone records are then transcribed, with Mrs. Whitcomb serving as secretary in correcting and revising the copy.

His many friends are eagerly awaiting the completion of the book and hoping that he will submit it for publication.

Community Dance Plans All in Readiness For Tonight

It is with a world of interest that hosts and sponsor of the Community Dance series to be instituted tonight in the Palma ballroom, Third and Ross street, await the outcome of their friendly planning. For tickets to this first of what is suggested as a series of weekly events, have been in such steady demand that a record crowd is anticipated.

Leon Eckles, head of WPA music and allied arts project, today stated that 500 tickets had been issued for the affair, indicative of the interest being taken by heads of families, in a carefully supervised amusement of such high standards as the dance will represent. "This does not mean that those who come expecting to secure tickets at the door, will be turned away," Mr. Eckles declared. "We want this to be a true civic project, so everyone enjoying a social evening amidst pleasant surroundings, will be welcome."

Final plans for the party were completed yesterday at a meeting of civic leaders in James' cafe. The plan for various service clubs to assume responsibility in rotation for future events in the series, was given favorable consideration. Hosts tonight will be Mayor and Mrs. Fred C. Rowland, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Horton, Messrs. and Mesdames William H. Spurgeon, E. M. Sundquist, Burr Shaffer, Plummer Bruns and R. R. Russick. The WPA orchestra, whose 12 members are all professional musicians of high standing, directed by Frank Niemann, has shown extreme interest in selecting dance music of gayety and charm for the program beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

1 scant cup chopped walnuts
1-2 cup chopped citron
1 cup sugar

2 cups bread flour, sifted once, then mixed with 1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice, 1-4 teaspoon, each, nutmeg and cloves. Sift twice again.

For convenience, chill the suet and run it through the food grinder. Mix the pudding in order listed and steam in small covered cans. One-pound baking powder cans are ideal, or coffee cans. Oil and line them with heavy paper. Stand the cans in boiling water, cover the kettle and time the steaming from the moment the water begins to boil gently. Steam 3 hours.

A delicious sauce for this pudding, one can make and keep in the refrigerator, uses these ingredients:

Cream 1 cup brown sugar with 1-2 cup butter, add 1-2 cup thin cream, a little at a time, heating well. Then add the yolk of 1 egg, flavor with brandy or rum flavoring, add the stiffly whipped white, well beaten in, and chill until ready to serve on the hot pudding.

1-2 cups cut spaghetti
Cracker crumbs, about 2 cups
2 cans canned oysters or 1 tall can minced clams
Salt, pepper and butter for top
Oyster or clam liquor mixed with spaghetti beef broth.

Cook the spaghetti in the beef broth, skim it out and arrange in layers in a wide and shallow casserole, alternating spaghetti with a layer of canned oysters or minced clam. The cracker crumb layer goes over the fish and finishes the top. Dust with salt and pepper, dot with lots of butter and pour in oysters or clam liquor mixed with spaghetti beef broth, until the liquid shows at top of dish. Bake 35 minutes in a hot oven, and serve with a greenish salad, as a main dish. This quantity serves six generously.

Penny Fair

Santa Ana Jaycee's annual Penny Fair, staged Friday night by Los Gauchos men's service club was pronounced a success by school officials. Approximately 500 people attended.

The Gaucho booth under the direction of Gus Gilbert, was awarded the cup for taking in the largest amount of money. The Bucaer service club was presented with a loving cup for having constructed the best decorated booth. The booth was built on the lines of a sailing vessel. Judges for the contest were the Rev. O. Scott McFarland and Calvin C. Flint, dean of men.

The fair was held in the Armory building, East Fourth street. Approximately 14 booths, featuring games of skill, were run during the evening by the various school organizations.

According to Harris Warren, president of Los Gauchos and director of the fair, the gate receipts and all money taken in by the booths will be used to refurbish the men's and women's lounges on the college campus. The fair has been adopted as an annual feature following its introduction last year by Los Gauchos.

The Great Ditch Comes of Age

TWENTY-ONE years ago, the Panama Canal was formally opened to traffic. In the time that it took this immense "ditch" to come of age, more than $2,000 ships have passed through it, and tolls of more than $294,000,000 have been collected.

In 1878, Ferdinand de Lesseps, the man who built the Suez Canal, tried to make a cut through the Isthmus of Panama. But half of his $7,000 laborers fell ill with tropical fever and other diseases, and the project had to be left unfinished.

The United States took a hand soon after the war with Spain, when it required two months for the battleship Oregon to travel 14,000 miles from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Through the marvelous sanitary work of Col. William C. Gorgas and the engineering skill of Col. George W. Goethals, the canal was completed within 10 years. It cost $400,000,000.

A picture of the thin strip of land which the Panama Canal crosses appears on stamps of Colombia and the Republic of Panama, issued for the Canal Zone. One is shown here.

Imagine This Steel Monster Thundering at You!

The amazing speed and power of modern tanks is vividly exemplified here, in the spectacular leap of a Soviet steel monster after surmounting a barrier, as troops stand by to watch the sensational feat. High it rises over the obstacle, its turret gun ready for action, the dirt flung in all directions from its tracks. The picture was snapped during recent maneuvers of the Russian tank corps.

Heavy Italian Artillery Heads for Big Battle

As Ethiopian warriors girded for a great offensive, Italian troops as shown above, brought forward, as fast as swampy and rugged terrain would permit them, their heavy artillery with which to face the tribesmen in what threatened to be one of the fiercest battles of the African war. So-lasie's troops were expected to attack the Italians in the region between Dessye and Dire-dawa, near the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railroad.

IL DUCE ON CANVAS LOOKS DOWN ON CONQUERED AREA

Though looking out from one huge canvas at another, this likeness of Benito Mussolini seems to be gazing at a scene which faithfully typifies Italian progress in the war of conquest in Ethiopia. Italian troops march forward to new gains, past the row of camouflaged tents, leaving behind them the ruins of a fort near Adigrat over which waves the Italian flag. Away from the shattered fortress stretch the barren wastes where attackers and defenders laid down their

Fascist Salute Greet Conquerors

Eager to avoid trouble, Ethiopians remaining in the territory conquered by the Italian army greet the invaders with a white flag of truce and the Fascist salute. A native on the outskirts of Aksum is shown saluting the Italian flag as troops entered the Holy City.

Proving Napoleon Was Right

Despite tanks, airplanes and poison gas, war fundamentals haven't changed much since Napoleon's sage observation that an army marches on its stomach. Shouldering quarters of beef, these Italian soldiers march kitchenward to prepare food for the contingent advancing on Aduwa.

Mussolini's Pet Has Pet, Too

While her father molds the destiny of Italy, and her two big brothers and brother-in-law risk death in their planes over Ethiopia, Anna Maria Mussolini is apparently the picture of serenity as she plays with the family pet in her northern Italy home. She's 11 Duce's youngest child.

Richest Girl Has Sunny Outlook

Sunning on a Honolulu beach, Doris Duke Cromwell appears the picture of happiness. And why not? Hawaiian sunshine, a flowery beach suit, one of the biggest incomes in the world, and the return from New York of her financier-husband, James Cromwell, whom she married last February—all contribute to the contentment of the "world's richest girl."

'AFTER 39 YEARS'—ITALIANS RULE AGAIN IN MAKALE

First Picture of Marina's Son

In the arms of his nurse, the recently born son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, is pictured for the first time as he was being taken to Buckingham Palace in London, for his grandparents, King George and Queen Mary to see. His mother is the former Princess Marina of Greece.

White Flag Goes Up in Ethiopia

The white flag of surrender waves over this stone defense of an Ethiopian village, a native standing in attitude of submission as the invaders advance. At the bottom of the photo is shown one of the portholes through which fire was directed at the Italians, moving on Adigrat.

Another Sousa Leads a Band

As pretty Priscilla Sousa, above, twirled her baton and strutted at the San Diego Exposition, bandmen struck up "Stars and Stripes Forever." In honor of her illustrious grandfather, the late Bandmaster John Philip Sousa, Priscilla's dad, John Philip, Jr., was feted, too, at the fair's Old Home Town Band Day celebration.

Conquest Ahead, Italians Toil Over Barren Plain

In seemingly endless columns, more than 150,000 Italian troops, 3000 miles from their homeland, march across the wastes of Ethiopia in a war of conquest, this long line of men offering a typical scene of the advance into the interior of Haile Selassie's empire. Tolling across a northern Ethiopian plain of sand, rock, and scrub vegetation on which the sun beat pitilessly down, this infantry unit was photographed as it advanced to the victory of Aksum, captured without the firing of a shot.

Haile's Legions on Way to Launch Great Attack

Jauntily, their primitive spears upraised, Ethiopian troops, as shown above, are streaming steadily from Addis Ababa, in preparation for what is expected to prove a great offensive against invading Italians, and a critical phase of the Italo-Ethiopian war. In a major engagement, which presumably will take place near Dire-dawa on the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railroad, Emperor Selassie hopes to hurl back the Italians despite their modern weapons.

PARENTS GUESTS AT TROOP PARTY

CONFERENCE TEAMS TO PLAY 7 GAMES

EL MODENA, Dec. 10.—The William Penn Troop of the Boy Scouts of America, assisted by their leader, Elmer Koenig, entertained a group of parents and friends at a party recently in the bungalow on the church grounds.

Alvin Koenig, field executive of the Boy Scouts of Orange county, and Cadet Barnes, friendly Indian commissioner, were the main speakers of the evening. Harry L. Skiles gave a short talk on the importance of the Placencia Scout troop No. 100, who gave the various bursar calls used in the Scout camps. Koenig gave an interesting demonstration of kindling a fire by friction.

Group singing was enjoyed, and Harry Skiles as leader and Fred Mahoney Jr. as organist.

The guest list included Mrs. Norman Sloan and son, Dempsey; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kennedy and daughter, Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson and sons, Carl and David; Horace Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Todd and son, Charles; Mrs. Elmer Koenig, Alvin Koenig, Lee Porter, Cadet Barnes, Harry L. Skiles and son, Johnnie, Eugene Joseph, Dick Faber and Ernest Joseph.

Members present were David Kennedy, Charles Johnson, Elmer Koenig Jr., Eugene Merrill, Elmer Koenig Jr., Harold Kuttler, Robert Stanley, Bobby Kuttler, Albert Niebla, Donald Finn, Fred Mahoney, Jack Doughty, Delmar Fernandez, Herbert Wulff, Stephen Niebla, Elmer Koenig, leader and Floyd Whitehorn, assistant leader.

Football followers agreed that the Northwest unit of the conference was principal beneficiary of the revised program, meeting numerous new teams which should do much to increase football revenues of the four Oregon and Washington schools.

Of principal interest to San Francisco bay region fans was Stanford's action in dropping Montana and San Jose State. University of San Francisco also was passed up by the Pacific and Santa Clara, but retained St. Mary's.

Al Masters, Stanford graduate manager, announced the Cards will play Columbia, their 1934 Rose Bowl conquerors, in New York in a post-season game.

Washington dropped Santa Clara, contracted to meet U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles, Washington State, after a 1934 "senior" schedule, booked Montana, Stanford, Idaho, U. S. C., Oregon, California, Oregon State, U. C. L. A., and Washington for consecutive weekends.

Huskies to Play Minnesota
Washington took on a man-sized assignment to open the season by signing an intercollegiate booking with Minnesota at Seattle Sept. 26. U. S. C. will meet Illinois and Notre Dame in intercollegiate basketball and Oregon State will resume its rivalry with Nebraska.

St. Mary's officials revealed they are attempting to arrange a game with Holy Cross in Boston, Mass., a week after their New York encounter with Fordham and there were indications that Montana or Idaho, or both, might sign games with Santa Clara.

The Broncos were understood to be seeking a new three year home-and-home contract with Texas Christian.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

By ELMER C. WALZER

(United Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The market for world silver metals unsettled the stock and bond markets today. Silver shares broke 2 to more than 3 points and most other issues followed the decline at a slower pace.

London traders were unable to fix a price for silver metal at 18,000,000 ounces were cleared with no bids. The United States treasury which heretofore has been a lone buyer of all silver offered apparently was out of the market.

Silver on the Montreal futures market broke 600 points or 6 cents, the limit permitted in a single session. The silver situation, such as change took precautions for such contingency by raising the margin requirements.

Silver shares broke at the outset on stock exchange. At the low U. S. Smelting touched 8 1/2 off 5 1/2; American Smelting 8 1/2 off 4 1/2; Cerro de Pasco 3 1/2 off 3 1/2; and Howe Sound 5 1/2 off 3 1/2. In the copper Anaconda, International Nickel, and Kennecott declined fractions to 2 points. Golds went higher with Dome Mines set at 1 1/2. The year at 4 1/2. U. S. C. will meet Illinois and Notre Dame in intercollegiate basketball and Oregon State will resume its rivalry with Nebraska.

St. Mary's officials revealed they are attempting to arrange a game with Holy Cross in Boston, Mass., a week after their New York encounter with Fordham and there were indications that Montana or Idaho, or both, might sign games with Santa Clara.

The Broncos were understood to be seeking a new three year home-and-home contract with Texas Christian.

SCHOOL BONDS

Santa Ana School District voters, on Thursday, will be called upon to vote on separate ballots for or against $227,000 in bonds to build classroom buildings at Santa Ana High School and $200,000 in bonds to build an auditorium at Julia C. Lathrop Junior High School.

The ballots, being separate, will give the voters an opportunity to vote for either or both of the bond issues for the buildings, as they see fit. It is generally believed that many voters in the last election, which failed, wanted to vote for the classrooms at the high school but did not want an auditorium at Lathrop.

It does not seem consistent for voters to pass laws requiring school attendance if adequate buildings are not provided, buildings both adequate and safe. If we are to have public schools, we must have school buildings.

We believe there are three good reasons why these buildings should be built now, even if taxes already are burdensome. First, men need jobs, and the construction would help employment. Second, if we are to have inflation, it will be better to build now while costs in money are lower. Thus we may pay off the obligation in money of less value. Third, there is every indication that, if these bonds are voted, 45 per cent of the cost will be paid by the Federal government and the saving will benefit property owners of the Santa Ana school district. This third point was brought out in a letter issued by Guy J. Gilbert, general chairman of the Citizens' School Building Committee.

The statement of Gilbert reads: "I have been virtually assured by Mr. H. H. Cotton that, if we will vote favorably on these issues, 45 per cent of our cost probably will be contributed by the government and, in that event, the 45 per cent will be deducted from the total amount we are to pay."

Let us have comfortable, safe buildings for our children who attend our schools.

Mussolini says that John Bull had better be nice to Italy, and that's all there is to it.

CONSTRUCTIVE GIFTS

Picture in your mind Santa Ana ten years hence. Picture a city situated in the heart of a redwood forest and then turn your thoughts to the commendable and constructive Christmas gift O. H. Barr of the Barr Lumber company has given to the city of Santa Ana, through its citizens.

During the last few days Mr. Barr has distributed to every house in Santa Ana at least two tiny redwood trees. It's his idea of doing something constructive and at the same time aiding in reforestation in a small way.

Twenty thousand of these little trees have been distributed by Mr. Barr.

If every one of these trees is planted in Santa Ana yards imagine what the result will be in a decade or two. If only one-third of these trees live to maturity Mr. Barr has accomplished something worth while.

The trees will grow at least five feet in the first year, according to the instructions for planting given with the little gifts.

The day may come, through Mr. Barr's act, when Santa Ana may be known as the city of redwoods.

We believe that Mr. Barr was motivated by more than a desire to advertise when he distributed these little trees.

A good slogan for the GOP's next year would be: Turn 'em out is only fair play.

WHY PRICES ARE HIGH

Department of Agriculture figures show that, during October, less than half of the money which American consumers paid for 10 typical food products actually got as far as the farmer.

The department's experts averaged the retail prices from 51 cities for such foods as beef, pork, eggs, milk, butter, cheese, potatoes, flour, and so on. An average monthly expenditure on these foods was $22.64; of this, the farmer got $10.12.

The difference between these two figures included incidentally, processing taxes totalling 83 cents.

If the consumer wants to get his foodstuffs more cheaply he has two points of attack—the amount the farmer gets and the amount the various middlemen collect along the way.

It would seem logical to suppose that the second point would be at least as good a place to begin as the first.

"Fish Strong in New York"—headline. To say nothing of the other states in which we've noticed it.

A NEW NATIONAL PARK

It is good to learn that Secretary Ickes has allotted $705,000 to buy 121,000 acres of land on Isle Royale, in Lake Superior, for eventual development of a national park.

Purchase is made under authority of legislation passed by Congress in 1931. Several CCC companies will be sent to the island as soon as weather permits—probably next spring—to improve the site and reduce fire hazards.

The move is a welcome one. Isle Royale is a unique place; a segment of virgin wilderness within easy reach of the populous centers of east and middle west, blessed with great natural beauty, and ideally situated for preservation in its natural, unspoiled state.

It is greatly to be hoped that the money allotted will prove sufficient to buy all the lands involved. The country needs this national park.

Sayings Of Will Rogers

One of the funniest things I have read in a long time was a conference in Geneva taking a month off to rest.

That's like a vice president of a bank or a night watchman asking for time to recuperate.

If there is one thing that would be laughable it would be for this country to try and show the rest of the world how to run a court. Of all the cockeyed things we got in this country at the present time, it's some of our judges, and courts, and justices.

We got more bandits out on bond than we got people for 'em to rob.

The State of New York don't want to recognize Reno divorces!

Have to give up the present wife, and take in the old one again, and the present one will have to go back where she made her previous stand.

The hard part for some of 'em is going to be to remember who they were divorced from last.

And it would do away with all alimony. There'd be another economic blow to the country. And Reno; they would turn that town into a sheep ranch if New York would refuse to recognize their product.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Peace between the utilities and the Roosevelt administration could have been made ten months ago and the nation could have benefited by more employment and by industrial activity amounting to $5,500,000,000. But the president rejected the plan, and insisted on the "death sentence" for holding companies, and today the litigation resulting from the law passed by congress will cost more than $1,000,000 in lawyers' fees alone incident to nearly 100 law suits.

Information as to what occurred in the conferences between Mr. Roosevelt and utility company executives is just leaking out as the nation begins to wonder whether the costly controversy could have been averted and whether there was any better plan than that which the President followed.

It is pertinent to examine the plan which was submitted to Mr. Roosevelt but has hitherto never been made public. For in the controversy over the New Deal, the questions are often asked, "What would you have done, or what would you do now? Why wasn't constructive criticism offered at the time?"

The plan given to Mr. Roosevelt was by no means the unanimous expression of the utility men, but it was accepted informally by more than 60 per cent of the industry and the chances are that the dissenters would have been brought into line had the administration shown evidence of a willingness to adopt the proposals. These provided:

First, the power industry would accept the administration's theory about lower electric light rates, and the utility companies would agree to file objective rates subject to the approval of the Federal Power commission.

Second, if satisfactory rates were established in a given territory, the federal government would declare that there was no necessity for federal loans to municipalities therein.

Third, the Federal government would continue its development of hydro-electric projects but would not duplicate transmission lines or aid in the duplication of municipal distribution facilities.

Fourth, the utilities would declare in favor of the passage of a Federal law permitting reasonable regulation of holding companies; namely, a law that would cure all the past evils, such as pyramid financing and inter-service charges, etc.

Fifth, the utilities would agree to spend $750,000,000 over and above last year's expenditure and would agree on a program for rural electrification.

Sixth, a national appliance commission would be appointed, which, in view of the low objective rates, would agree on the manufacturing of appliances on a wholesale plan to electrify America. Arrangements would be made for something better than the Electric Farm and Home Authority in respect to long term paper that could be discounted at the banks.

Mr. Roosevelt was told that, if this plan could be put into effect, there would consequently be an increase in the development of properties through better capital markets, and the amount of business possible would run well over $3,500,000,000.

The authorship of the plan has never been revealed, but it is believed here that it was the work of Wendell L. Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth & Southern corporation, one of the most progressive of the utility men and one in whom it is believed Mr. Roosevelt has had considerable confidence. Mr. Wilkie has been a life-long Democrat; an executive able to understand both sides of the utility controversy, and a man whose visits to the Federal Power commission last January were welcomed by the officials there because he seemed to be sincerely trying to work out a compromise.

Just why Mr. Roosevelt rejected the project has never been disclosed. Certain it is that many of his advisers were keenly enthusiastic about it. Others possibly in his official family who were hopeful of a government ownership scheme or who believed that there was political gain for Mr. Roosevelt in constant agitation of the fight against the utilities may have dissuaded the President.

Anyway, the conferences came to naught and the battle went on into the summer with the final adoption of a law that is unquestionably unconstitutional but a decision on which probably will not be made by the Supreme Court for another year or so, during which time the development of the heavy goods industries, so dependent on utility development, will be retarded.

All the facts about these January conferences at the White House ought to be made known. The utility men refuse to do so because they say the law now has been passed and the battle lines have been drawn. The unemployed—the innocent victims of the political war—will not be benefited by such a revelation.

Even if the plan was rejected last January, it could be revived this January and congress could modify the existing law to make it valid. This would be the biggest single achievement toward economic recovery that could be made in the near future and probably would absorb more men than the Works Progress administration.

HAIL AND FAREWELL!

(On learning that the leonids, once abundant in the skies, are gradually fading out.)

When I was young, like other kids
I used to watch for leonids,
Which travelled high
Up in the sky
And filled by breast with wonder.
But now they're fading, one by one;
They have been gobbled by the sun,
Or in their race
Through realms of space
They've all been smashed asunder.

For many a long and weary year
I've watched those leonids appear.
They went and came,
Small dots of flame;
They flickered in the Heavens.
And sometimes gave me quite a start
When they appeared to burst apart,
And strew the blue
The whole night through
By sixes and by sevens.

But now the leonids have fled,
One does not see them overhead.
They've gone up where
There is no air
Through which we may discern them.
And now we end our fleeting rhyme,
All things must vanish in due time;
The leonids
Are on the skirts,
So let 'em slide, gol-dern them.

THE POLITICAL DRUG HABIT

Mr. Roosevelt announces that the peak of prodigal spending by the federal government has been reached.

I do not question the sincerity or the earnest desire of the President in this matter.

No man with the awful responsibility of the national future on his shoulders could wish other than that a spending program fraught with danger to the national credit stability should taper down.

I am wondering about the obstacles that will be encountered when the tapering down begins.

Free spending by a government is, while the going is good, an enormous political asset to the party in power. The average voter is not closely critical of the long-time soundness of policies. He does feel the impact of a program. And if the program in question is bringing money directly into his pocket he feels the impact vividly.

He will feel the stopping of the money stream quite as vividly. If the pump priming theory worked, the tapering off of public spending would not be so serious a process.

But in view of the fact that at the end of all our spending there are about as many unemployed, as far as normal private enterprise is concerned, as before, this business of tapering off on spending from the public treasury becomes a knotty political problem.

Can it be done, except with mirrors, in a campaign year without serious political loss to the party in power?

If private enterprise takes up the slack, Yes!

If private enterprise does not take up the slack, No!

What happens to the spending program in the next twelve months will be the most fascinating of all political problems to watch. Good luck, Mr. President. Nobody envies you the responsibility.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

Philip had come home late for dinner and his father was rather put out about it. "Sorry," said he, "but I saw the sweetest movie of Johnny Weissmuller. I just had to see him."

"Why—whose he?"

"A swimming champ, the best athlete alive. I'm going to be as good as he some day."

"More of your hero-worship. First it was a baseball player, then a football player and now it's a movie actor."

"No, a swimming champion. Didn't you ever have a hero, pa, somebody you'd like to be like?"

"Nonsense. A swimming champion of all things. You're a mess. Your hair is so long it will soon have to be put up in braids."

"I like it long. That's the way Weissmuller wears it."

"There you go again. Either you move your ears down or have that mop cut off and look like a human being."

"I like my hair long."

"I'm talking, young man. Have that hair cut. If you don't, I'll cut it for you. I'm about fed up. And now, let's eat. Dinner's cold and spoiled and all because of this hero business."

The family ate their dinner in silence. Then Phil rushed through his homework and disappeared into the bathroom where he stayed for a long time. Presently his father heard loud splashing and thumpings. "One-two-stroke-stroke-stroke-breath."

"What is this," he shouted, "locking yourself in the bathroom and thrashing around like a moving machine? Come out here. What's the idea of all this any-way?"

"I'm training. I'm going to be a swimming champion."

"A swimming champion. A shrimp like you, hardly able to life your weight on your feet when somebody wants you to do a useful errand? Now cut it out. Don't go swimming in the bathtub like a simple Simon."

"I'm not swimming. I'm practicing. I'm going to be a champion, and nothing is going to interfere with my ambition."

"You talk like an idiot."

Opposing a boy like Philip never does any good. You embitter his spirit. You sow the seeds of rebellion. But you do not change his opinion. Persuade him to a better way, show him that what you ask him to do is for his own good. If the battle you wage with a child is in his own cause, and he acknowledges it, you win. But until he acts under his own will and purpose you won't make headway. Better be grateful to those who inspire him to effort, be he baseball player or swimming champion. Make a bow in the direction of the hero of the hour. So long as the model is a good one you need have no fear, only good can come to the child.
